Junior Goodwill To Sponsor May Day Fair On May 1st

Mrs. George T. Trumbull, of Dunston road, is the president of the Junior Goodwill and she has appointed many Birmingham and Bloomfield members on her committee. Mrs. George S. Dixon, of Kibberly road, has been busy collecting toys and clothing for the children's booth. Baking cookies and other goodies for the baked goods sale has been the responsibility of Mrs. Glen M. Davis, of Elm street. Mrs. Franklin Miller, of Boise Pine road, has been making objects for the handicraft booth.

The sewing group has been working under the supervision of Mrs. Nelson Manley, of West Long Lake road. Mrs. E. G. Newhall, of Arlington road, is working on the committee for the dinner that will be served at the fair.

The fortune telling booth will be in charge of Mrs. Raymond Tysman, of Fenwick road, and road will be working in the fairy shop the day of the fair.

With the proceeds of the fair the members hope to accumulate funds to increase the facilities of the Goodwill plant and replace much of the present physical equipment after the war. In the post-war world the Goodwill plant must be ready to meet the needs of the handicapped, particularly the returning veterans, who require assistance in the readjustment to civilian life and work. It is for this reason the Junior Goodwill seeks cooperation of the public.

Donations for the fair in the way of white elephant goods, children's clothing, and toys or handwork will be appreciated. If cumbersome, arrangements for shipping or picking them up by calling Mrs. Crockett at the Goodwill plant.

Effective April 12, all Classified Ads must be in the Eccentric office by five o'clock each Tuesday evening for insertion that week. Telephone or bring them in, please. (See time man-power problems route this advance to copy deadline.)
