COURAGE is all that true Americans need to preserve their freedom.

While awaiting arrest by the Federal Government this week, Lindbergh said he will not jump through hoops for these parasites and because we know so much about the thing called government, a good many Washington officials heard of the affair. The press was waiting, but lo—it was like an Easter service, apologies and assurances of good will—"I'm sorry, Mr. Moto."

We treasure our heritage, we fear nothing and hold in contempt what now calls itself government.

Long live America and may cowardly Americans regain their courage so as to save this Nation rather than others on the planet.

Anyone wanting to dispose of their possessions or needing help in escaping trouble get in touch with us. Action always.

We know America better than a book—we help write it.
