Christ Church Scene Of Lovely Afternoon Rites

The altar of Christ Church Cranbrook was banked with ribbons of white gladioli Saturday afternoon when Marion Dickens Gilbreath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder Gilbreath, Jr., 416 Puritan road, became the bride of Robert T. Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Skinner, of Palmer Woods. The couple spoke their vows before the Rev. William S. Hill at 4:30 o'clock.

Marion, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white marquisette over tulle. Chantilly lace shadowed the bodice, with its V-neckline and long sleeves ruffled at the wrists. Ruffles also adorned the dress, extending from the shoulder to the hem of her very full skirt. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of Chantilly lace and she carried white orchids and stephanotis.

Nan Gilbreath, as her sister's maid of honor, Mrs. Richard Booth Wallace, as matron of honor, and Jeanine Celgrove and Donalda Lockwood, of Monroe, as bridesmaids, were dressed alike in white dotted marquisette gowns with heart shaped necklines, a short ruffled sleeve and a bustle effect formed of ruffles. Bright red geraniums fashioned their floral tiaras and cascade bouquets.

Pfc. Ralph L. Skinner, Jr. was best man for his brother and usher were William S. Gilbreath, III and Adolph Teichert, of New York, a cousin of the bridegroom. Mrs. Gilbreath chose for her daughter's wedding a honey beige street-length dress with a collar of green ostrich feathers tipped in red and a rubrum lily corsage. The bridegroom's mother was in aqua crepe with a feather hat of American Beauty shade and a matching corsage of cascades.

Following the reception held at Orchard Lake Country club the young couple left for a Northern Michigan honeymoon after which they will make their home in Ann Arbor. For traveling the new Mrs. Skinner wore an aqua gabardine suit, with brown accessories and an orchid from her wedding bouquet.

...Peeking 'cross the hedge!

HOW frequently folks "compare notes" after a successful occasion at someone else's home—noting the gracious good taste of the drinkware and the dinnerware, the warmth and the correctness of it all.

Chances are such hostesses have given far more than cursory study to the drinkware and diningware which adds so much pleasure to these occasions. It might be called "background," true, but actually drinkingware and diningware are so foregrounded that the successful hostess makes certain she is one who causes guests to "peek 'cross the hedge" and take note.
