Cranbrook Graduate Takes Teaching Post At Utica, New York

Winslow Bryan Eaves will assume his new duties as instructor in the school of Art, Sculpture and Ceramic Department at the Manson-Williams Troctor Institute in Utica, N. Y. with the beginning of the new semester. While a student at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., Mr. Eaves was awarded a two-year scholarship and studied under the direction of Carl Milles. He was one of the group of Cranbrook students who was awarded first prize in the Rome Collaborative Competition which is awarded annually by the Association of the Alumni of the American Academy in Rome. He also studied with William Zorach in New York City before spending two and one-half years in military service, where he spent ten months in India and seven months in the Marianos. Mr. Eaves is a graduate of Northwestern High School in Detroit.

In mild winters some wild geese remain in Michigan, but the last usually go south as soon as the ice closes the lakes, in November or December.
