Dumbarton Oaks Study Meeting To Be On Jan. 31

The next study meeting of the several clubs and individuals interested in the study world affairs, is to meet in Baldwin library at 10:30 o'clock, Wednesday forenoon, Jan. 31. It was announced today, Mrs. John K. Ormond will present the official state department views on the Dumbarton Oaks conference. Mrs. R. S. Pliccio will serve as chairman of the meeting.

This general meeting is said to be an outgrowth of efforts of Mrs. Philip Pretz in the League of Women Voters. When Mrs. Pretz started to organize a group to study United States participation in world affairs for the League, she discovered that four other women's clubs in Birmingham were in the process of organizing similar groups. Mrs. Pretz felt that more could be accomplished with one large group, pooling information and effort and as a result the Dumbarton Oaks Study Group is composed of representatives from the American Association of University Women, the International Relations Club, the Birmingham Women's Club, the Women's Action Committee and the League of Women Voters, with the addition of any interested person who does not belong to these clubs.

Panel discussion was adopted as the most effective way of getting and distributing information, and several successful panels have been formed. As additional panels are formed, literature is available to them at the League of Women Voters office in the Municipal Building. This literature is from the state department, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, the Foreign Policy Association, the World Alliance Council of Churches, the World Study Council and the National League of Women Voters. Mrs. Rudolf Eech is in charge of this literature.

Start More Classes In Home Nursing For Birmingham Women

"With the Army and Navy conducting a campaign for nurses and with more and more trained nurses leaving for military duty it is doubly necessary that the women on the home front learn to care for their health and that of their families," says Mrs. Hugh Little, chairman of Oakland county Chapter American Red Cross home nursing courses.

Mrs. Little states that classes are being organized as fast as there is a demand. At present courses are in progress in southern Oakland county and Pontiac. Information about the courses may be had by calling chapter headquarters Pontiac 2-8393 or Mrs. Little's home, Pontiac 8445 also Southern Oakland office, Royal Oak, Lincoln 2-1850. Classes will be taught in any community where a teacher may be secured and sufficient number of persons are enrolled.

It is the aim of the Red Cross to train wives and mothers to care for their families that the nurses of the community may be free for military duty. With more than 12,000 wounded men returning each week from the battle fronts many additional nurses are needed. Last year Oakland County trained 150 in home nursing and it is expected to train even more this year.
