candidate and these, together with pictures of the meet in the race, follow:

Lawrence C. Howe

A statement issued for Mr. Howe reads: "Lawrence C. Howe was born in the Detroit area in 1905. Mr. Howe has been a resident of Birmingham since 1914 and is a member of the second generation of a tax-paying family in this community. He is a graduate of Baldwin High School and Denison University, and has had nationwide experience in the operation of vocational training programs for youth. Interested in keeping Birmingham an ideal home community, he favors intelligent co-ordination of city and area postwar planning. As a public relations, advertising, and business executive, he has been trained in industry over the last 18 years to see and handle major problems involving human relationships such as the problems which are likely to develop in Birmingham's future growth."

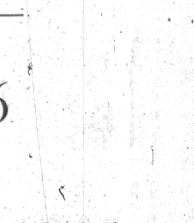

Wilmer E. Moody

"Nine years as your City Commissioner and thirty years experience in industry have given me the 'know how' in the handling of major economic and social problems so important in post-war days ahead," said Wilmer E. Moody in his statement.

"When in 1936 a group of Birmingham citizens convinced me that my many years of business experience fitted me for service as a commissioner in this community in which I have lived since 1928 and in which I have always taken an active civic part, I accepted the nomination. You people elected me your commissioner. I believe today, and in the post war days ahead—even more than in 1936—a man of my qualifications is needed on your City Commission."

"I have, and will continue, my platform of economy through efficiency. I will continue to vigorously defend the zoning ordinance giving protection to both business and residential property. I assure the taxpayers that I will continue to help to maintain a city of contented people, where there is a unity of spirit with close cooperation between the community center, board of education, public and city government, working as we do—together—with but one common cause in mind—making a better city in which we live."

Ralph A. Main

Ralph A. Main today issued the following statement: "Birmingham is one of the finest residential communities in the world and it is the City Commissioner's job to keep it that way. My profession enables me to be in constant touch with the latest and best in City Planning and Zoning, which is now uppermost in the minds of many Birmingham citizens. There is not a Municipal engineer on the Commission yet 75 to 80 per cent of its problems are of an engineering nature."

"Having served many years in charge of the Birmingham Engineering Department, I am intimately familiar with Birmingham's needs. Now I am practicing Civil Engineering and Land Surveying in this area, as well as for other Michigan cities. I am an aggressive advocate of plans to secure the maximum Federal and State aid for Birmingham and will work for more intelligent economy in the Administration of the City's business."

"If elected I am sure my conduct will merit the confidence of Birmingham's voters."

have had wide experience and given many years to city service, as the following indicates: Am at present mayor of the city and a member of the Oakland county board of supervisors; a former member of the local board of education; six years business manager of the public schools in the city of Highland Park; served on the local Recreation Board and Community Council and other civic organizations.

"A very significant fact regarding Birmingham's financial standing due to conditions and the efficient administration of the city's business is reflected in the recent sale of refunding bonds at the low interest rate of one and three-tenths per cent. This is one of the measuring rods of efficient government."

"If returned to office as a commissioner, where I have served for nine years, I will continue to give the city's business my best efforts."

John H. Rosso

The statement of John H. Rosso, issued Tuesday, follows: "As a resident of Birmingham for 43 years and a local business man for 20 years, I am particularly interested in the sound growth of Birmingham as a leading residential community."

"As a former member of the Board of Education for 12 years and a member of the Recreation Commission for a number of years, I realize the importance of sound cooperation between School and City Government."

"As a veteran of World War I and father of two sons in World War II, I am vitally concerned in Birmingham's sane adjustment to peacetime conditions."

"If elected as Commissioner, I will endeavor to serve the people of Birmingham faithfully and constructively."
