it rotates; the other is infinite . . . a million billion billion times more powerful than the earth atomic bomb . . . for its source is from the laboratory of the God of Goodness . . . and humans may obtain it in unlimited quantities, to drop upon those areas of human wrong that need to be wiped off the face of the earth!

Then will wars cease . . . and mankind go about its destiny with cheerful countenances and happy hearts . . . and little children really claim an earthly kinship with their Divine Parenthood called God!

Traffic On West Maple Avenue Is Soon To Be Eased

The traffic situation on West Maple avenue appears today to be on its way to at least a temporary solution and car parking space to be enlarged in that area. Monday night the city commission approved the recommendations of Chief of Police John P. Hackett and City Manager Harold H. Corson for elimination of car parking on the south side of Pierce street from woodward avenue to Bates street, and extended the limited parking areas to a number of new streets. Car parking had previously been eliminated from the south side of West Maple between Pierce and Woodward avenue.

The new plans will be placed in operation as soon as necessary signs and markings can be secured. The change over may require from two to four weeks to accomplish.

Extend Limited Parking

"No Parking" signs will be placed along the south side of West Maple avenue and "One Hour" parking signs will go up all along both sides of Bates street, between Martin and Willits; both sides of Henrietta street, from West Maple to Merrill; on both sides of Pierce street from West Maple to Merrill; on Martin street between Pierce street and Bates street, except on the south side of Martin street along in front of the municipal building which will be reserved for use of persons having to make calls at the Municipal building on business; and on both sides of West Maple between Bates and Chester streets. One hour parking will be continued on West Maple between Woodward and Bates.

Some sections of this area have already been in the "one hour parking" zone but enough additional space is being added to care for quite a large number of cars. The number is estimated at about a hundred.

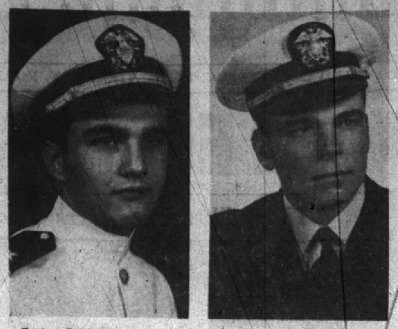
Birmingham Boys Commissioned in Navy



Ensign Frederick C. Booth

Ensign Newell Wright

Birmingham has just sent two of her young men into naval duty as ensigns, Frederick Coleman Booth and Newell Wright received their commissions at the University of Michigan where they completed on Oct. 20 the NROTC course of about two years. They left last week for San Francisco and from there will go to Guam for duty in the Pacific area.

Ensign Booth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Booth of Cranbrook road, Bloomfield Hills. He studied at Cranbrook and Vaughn schools before entering naval service. Ensign Wright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Wright, 243 Aspen road, and took his high school work at Baldwin.

During their stay at Ann Arbor they were roommates and hope for assignment to the same post in the far side of the Pacific.

Crowds At Bus Accident Well Behaved Says One Person Who Gave First Aid

A medical student, a registered nurse and an ex-Army first aid man happened to be at home together one block distant from the bus-truck crash on Monday. They hurried to the scene of the accident and helped the injured during the early crucial moments when no doctors were at hand.

Francis Buckeridge, of Wayne College of Medicine, was at his home at 507 Brookside for the afternoon on a school holiday. Also at home were his mother, Mrs. J. O. Buckeridge, of the nursing staff of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac; and his brother, Justin P. Buckeridge, recently home from the battles in Europe. Working upstairs in the Buckeridge home, Justin was the first of the family to see the commotion on Woodward avenue.

The three went at once to help. Francis worked with the city firemen in administering oxygen to the most critically injured; Justin helped to release trapped victims and to render first aid, and Mrs. Buckeridge assisted in treating victims and preparing them for the ambulances and transportation to the hospital.

"The crowd of bystanders," commented Justin Buckeridge, an old hand at giving first aid at traffic accidents before the war and also on the field of battle, "was better behaved than usual when there is an accident. Mostly they stood at a reasonable distance away and there was not much of the usual trying to yank people to their feet who should lie still until examined. There were no doctors around and the people hurt expressed themselves as lucky to have so many firemen, policemen, nurses and civilians there who knew what to do in case of accident."

WRECK

to a halt as it nosed into Euclid avenue while the suburban bus was turned around by the crash and rebound and headed back north on Woodward, coming to a stop against the curb and a light post, just north of the other bus. The oil truck rolled on across the street and crashed into the curb and a fire hydrant just between the two wrecked buses.

Birmingham police called additional ambulances to the scene and the worst of the injured were hurried to hospitals almost as rapidly as they could be taken from the buses. Many escaped through the emergency doors, some few crawled out windows but some were so tightly pinned in that parts of the wreckage had to be cut away before they could be freed.

Kept Hospitals Busy

The rush of victims to the hospitals came at the hour of changing shifts for the nurses but many remained on the job to assist in the handling of the greatest single influx of accident victims in the hospitals' history.

Nurses' aides from the Red Cross classes hurried to St. Joseph Mercy hospital to aid in the emergency, among those reporting, the hospital said, being Mrs. Harry J. Klingler, Mrs. Rolfe Spinning, Mrs. Erwin Schuter, Mrs. J. W. Fyie, Mrs. Wayne Strickland, Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. William Bigler, Mrs. Russell French and Charlotte DuBois. Tuesday morning additional nurses reported.

One of the first persons to reach the scene of the accident was Warren Crowe, residing on Route One out of Birmingham. He had stopped for a short while farther up Woodward avenue to shop, and in a few seconds heard the crash. He assisted in taking injured from the smashed buses and assisted in opening the emergency door.

Chief of Police John Hackett declared the wreck the worst in his 15 years of service in Birmingham. The Greyhound company said the accident was the worst they had ever experienced in or near Birmingham.

Chief Hackett reported Wednesday that drivers of both buses and the oil truck would be questioned by men from the Oakland county prosecutor's office in an effort to fix responsibility for the accident, and to determine whether or not there was evidence of any criminal negligence.

Barnum Junior High Wins Close Battle From Hazel Parkers

The Barnum Junior High School football team won from Hazel Park Park Freshmen at Hazel Park last Thursday afternoon. The score was 6-0, the result of a reverse play with Dick Murray carrying the ball on a 30 yard run. The playing of both teams was outstanding and Birmingham held off a last period attack to save the victory.

This was the fifth victory for the team against one loss.

The defeat was at the hands of Salina Junior High of Fordson, a team which has not been scored upon all season and has averaged 40 points a game. Barnum closes its season against the freshman team at Cranbrook tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Birmingham Has Quiet Celebration Of Armistice Day

Birmingham observed Armistice Day in a rather quiet manner. The annual church service was held at the First Baptist church while other churches held services in honor of the day.

The day was observed on Monday by business, some stores, the banks, post office, city building and some professional offices being closed for the day.

For Sunday's Armistice Day service the Rev. Melvine Crump, pastor, spoke on "Keeping the Four Freedoms." He took for his text "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong." I Corinthians 16:13, and said in part:

We Must Understand

"The declaration of the Four Freedoms by Former President Roosevelt furnished the United Nations with a slogan which gave strong support to their will to win the war. The four freedoms which he included in his declarations are, namely: Freedom from Want, Freedom from Fear, Freedom of Speech and Freedom of Religion. It is not enough for us to simply quote these. We must understand and appreciate their strong spiritual undergirding.

"These four freedoms are not something new. They are the inalienable rights of all men. They make men free. Read the first Amendment to the Constitution of these United States and we find these words: Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

"We have fought and won wars to maintain these freedoms. It is the duty of every citizen to zealously guard these freedoms in time of peace as ardently as they fought for them in time of war.

"Let us beware that these freedoms can more easily be lost by neglect than by the power of any and all enemies from without. The fire of patriotism must be kept burning bright upon the heart of all our people."
