Planning Commission is continuing its study of the situation.

Mr. Carson reported he was making progress in his effort to exchange city-owned lots for other property in blocks where the city hopes to build additional parks.

The manager also reported that the stop street intersection of Forest and Elm appears to be working out nicely and that the police department had recommended making this permanent.

Friendship

Friendship is a beautiful thing, but it represents an UNSAFE FOUNDATION for a profit in dollars and cents. Seek Real Estate advice of good Realtors who sell REAL PROPERTY. A Handshake is a friendly gesture, it should never be offered for business with him because he's a good fellow" has led to headaching and bankruptcy. Of course there can be friendship in business. Who's going to deny that? But the man who realizes a profit from Real Estate transactions deals with SMILES OR FROWNS ARE NOT COLLEAGUES.

Church-Women Hold Missionary Rally At Methodist Church

The annual Birmingham Missionary Institute opened at 2:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 1, in the First Methodist church with Mrs. Early Cunningham, president of the Council of Church Women, in charge. There was a good attendance in spite of the inclement weather and gasoline shortage.

The institute began with a worship period led by Mrs. O. D. Hillman. Mrs. Jennie C. Callahan of New York City was the speaker for the day. Her theme was "Up-Rooted Americans" and stressed the fact that "we are all one world so there is no dividing line between home and foreign missions. In fact, if Christ returned to Palestine today we would be the foreign mission."

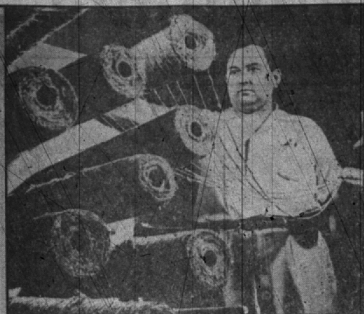

The morning session ended at 12:15 and was followed by a luncheon served in the Methodist Church House. The luncheon chairman was Mrs. Perrin Shattuck. Mrs. John E. Martin, wife of a former pastor of the Birmingham Methodist church, and now state president of the Michigan Council of Church Women, opened the afternoon session with an interesting talk.

Mrs. Callister took up her discussion when she left off at the morning session. The session closed at 2:45 o'clock.

Swiet and Low... asked the bishop... it was a lively place... things were always... Yes, he means... business is business... and friendship.

Commercial use for hitherto wasted chicken feathers is being developed in the rubber industry, where experimenters are producing fabric of mixed feathers and other fibers which is said to be resposable wool, but is softer and lighter. At left a model wears a dress made of the new experimental chicken feather fabric, and at right you see portions of the yarn ready for weaving.

Merit Awards Are Received By State Salvage Leaders

Michigan's outstanding record in the nation-wide salvages of scrap materials which provided the power behind the production lines during World War II has received recognition in the form of certificates of merit signed by J. A. Krug, director of the War Production Board, and awarded to Governor Harry F. Kelly, Captain Donald S. Leonard, state director of Civilian Defense, Edwin J. Anderson, chairman of the State OCD Salvage Committee, and the chairman of Birmingham chapter, has received his certificate.

OCD salvage committees ended their collection campaigns concurrently with the dissolution of the WPB salvage and conservation division in August, but technically they will remain in existence until formal termination of the entire state-wide Civilian Defense organization on a date to be set for this month when liquidation preparations now in progress are completed.

Racing Is Back At Northville Track

After racing in this section took on a new lease of life this week as the Northville Downs Racing association opened its fall season at the Northville fair grounds track. More than 350 horses are now quartered at Northville for the meeting which is expected to prove a record-breaker.

Races start at 8:30 p. m. and the meet is expected to continue for about 10 nights or even longer if weather permits.

Edward Keller, racing secretary, says that represented will be all the top stables in Michigan and many from Canada. Starts from 1:30 to 10:30 p. m.

The first stake rally for a purse of $1,000, the Woodford for a purse of $1,000 and the two the same stakes which follow for a purse of $2,000 each. They are the Fall at Northville to be run Oct. 27 and the Junior Free-for-all Championship to be run Nov. 25.

The track grandstand and all other buildings have been renovated and modernized. It has been added to provide for the comfort and protection of the public.

An able staff of veteran harness racing officials will operate the meet. There will be pari-mutuel betting with photo finish and an electric tote book.

The Eastern Kentucky and other fine tracks are included. With horses pre-eminently. Keller has arranged a series of pari-mutuel betting, returns and four stakes.
