What Michigan Bell's Post-war Program means for BIRMINGHAM

- Michigan Bell already has started an expansion and improvement program that will cost $120,000,000 in the next five years. Naturally, Birmingham residents want to know how Birmingham will benefit from such a huge undertaking. Briefly, here are some of our plans: • When more telephone instruments are available and the necessary new plant has been constructed, we shall be able to care for all the Birmingham families now waiting for service and for others who may apply meanwhile. • Since August 1, new telephones have been installed for nearly 200 waiting applicants, leaving some 30 families still to be served. A few of the 50 are in areas where all existing outside lines are in use. To serve those and to take care of future growth, we will add the necessary lines as soon as possible. With good business conditions, we anticipate an increase of 2,500 telephones here in the 3-year period. • At some time in the 5-year period, we plan to install a modern, dial-operated telephone system here. To house the new dial equipment, we expect to construct a new building at the northeast corner of Martin and Henrietta Streets. • In connection with the dial project, we also plan to install equipment which will enable Birmingham customers to dial numbers in Detroit and other adjacent communities direct. • These, and other projects planned, will represent expenditures in Birmingham of nearly a million dollars.

thirty people willing to invest their savings in Bell System securities. This means that earnings, now and in the future, must be sufficient to attract investment dollars. But if prospects for future Telephone Company earnings are unattractive compared with those of other companies, investors will place their savings elsewhere. The future quality of your telephone service depends on telephone rates sufficient to produce earnings attractive to investors. Too long a continuation of inadequate earnings would weaken our ability to meet expected post-war telephone needs. Michigan Bell customers want good service. The telephone bill is so small an item in their regular expenditures that customers want really good service even though it might cost a trifle more than they would need to pay for inferior service.

AMBITIOUS as this program appears, it is absolutely essential, if we are to make service available to all who want and need it. Nor is there any other way we can keep pace with normal progress and provide consistently improved service in the future. The money needed to finance the $120,000,000 program must come from
