

Between the safety and security of America today there are countless lives that have been given up in part, in fact of the barbarism of our former enemies. We who never were at the front of affairs is impossible for there are hundreds of thousands of people who don't know anything in the world could not provide FULL employment, then how can peace times do so?

Even in a completely socialistic or communist system FULL employment is impossible. So why kill ourselves today into believing that FULL employment is going to be possible—under ANY type of governmental policy—when our United States has had it?

To be sure, some remedies can be put forth to assure FULLEST POSSIBLE employment; when private business cannot create sufficient jobs, with or without a current depression, government can start certain projects to provide certain jobs—jobs on projects that would liquidate surplus inventory, leaf-raking form of dole.

When you really ponder the current slogan "Full Employment," you must admit that it is merely a catch-phrase used by politicians to get votes.

That is most of what it is... the only alternative being unable to provide FULL employment, makes people keep their mouths shut at the point of a bayonet.

So let's supplant the foolish catch-phrase "FULL EMPLOYMENT" with one that is part of the American credo: "FULLY POSSIBLE EMPLOYMENT"...

From bondage to bondage. Regarding "The Cycle of Civilization," here are some thoughts presented by Fred G. Crawford, Jr., president of the Armstrong Cork Co., when he appeared on the radio last night on the program...

From bondage to SPIRITUAL FAITH. 2. From spiritual faith to CONSCIENCE. 3. From conscience to FREEDOM. 4. From freedom to some measure of CONSCIENCE.

5. From abundance to SELFISHNESS. 6. From selfishness to COMPLACENCY. 7. From complacency to APATHY. 8. From apathy to FEAR. 9. From fear to DEPENDENCY. 10. From dependency back again to BONDAGE.

When he finished attendance at the Hill school here in Birmingham, Mr. Bell was employed at the general store operated by late George E. Bell, a partner now used by the Milpex restaurant, just south of Woodward and Maple roads in the city.

Palbearers at the funeral services were Sidney R. Patterson, Clarence W. H. Fred G. Crawford, Charles J. Shain, Elmer C. Huston, of Birmingham, and John Brown, local contractor.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the family home in Franklin for Louis Kahn, who had been stricken by a cerebral artery illness. Dr. Glaser, of Temple Beth El, Detroit, conducted the services.

Louis Kahn was president of the nationally known firm of Altrincham, Inc., engineers and architects, 185, Detroit. He attended the University of Michigan and had entered business in Detroit, Mich., in 1920.

He was a member of the Detroit Engineers club, of the University of Michigan Alumni association and the American Society of Engineers and of the Bloomfield Open Hunt.

Wylie Bell Dies Friday While At Work At His Farm

S. O. Wylie Bell, one of Birmingham's best known and beloved citizens, died at his home at 217 Elm street, Birmingham, Friday afternoon, Sept. 5, at the age of 62.

Mr. Bell, who suffered a stroke six years ago and had been a partial invalid since, passed away while watering the garden at his farm, situated between Lahar and Telegraph roads on the 12-Mile road, last Friday afternoon.

He had left his home at 217 Elm street that morning, as usual, to spend the day at the farm; it is presumed that about mid-afternoon he was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage, and his body discovered by a neighbor shortly after 6 o'clock.

Born in Southfield, Samuel Oliver Wylie Bell was born in Southfield township Sept. 3, 1885, exactly 70 years from the date of his birth to the date of his funeral services, incidentally, his farm is located in Southfield township. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery on the street here.

Besides his widow, whom he married Feb. 1909, Mr. Bell is survived by a son, Donald S. Wylie, of Detroit; four brothers, Howard J. J. Renwick, and Norman A., all of Birmingham, Clarence W. H. Fred G. Crawford, of Birmingham, and John Brown, local contractor.

Mr. Bell was employed at the general store operated by late George E. Bell, a partner now used by the Milpex restaurant, just south of Woodward and Maple roads in the city.

Palbearers at the funeral services were Sidney R. Patterson, Clarence W. H. Fred G. Crawford, Charles J. Shain, Elmer C. Huston, of Birmingham, and John Brown, local contractor.

Community House Starts Fall Season

Its Various Services Are Enlarged; Give Attention to Youth

The Birmingham Community House reopened for the season on Sept. 4, after being closed during August for painting and repairs. All facilities are again available to the public. Hours are to be from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. and again in the evening, starting at 7 o'clock on week days. Sundays the House will be open by appointment only.

The community dinners are to be resumed on Thursday evening, Sept. 7, with reservations starting Sept. 14. As of the past the limit will be 125 people for these dinner reservations.

The plans for the Community House are being carried out by a broad program for both youth and adults. The Teen Canteen, which has been operating since last fall, is being expanded to include a variety of activities and interests. Tentative plans consist of a Youth Snacks program, which will be similar to hundreds already running through the United States.

The Artists Series for the adult members of the community will begin in October. The first program will be in January. The League Players group, in November the AAVU will sponsor a lecture on the League of Women Voters will sponsor a second lecture. The series will be conducted by the Birmingham Musicale in the spring.

The Employment Office will continue to serve the public with the greatest possible efficiency. The office has had a great deal of success in raising the standard of good workers.

For the opening day of the fall season the program included the weekly luncheon of the Exchange Club, which did not hold regular luncheons in August. The House serves luncheon all fall operations, with many committee meetings, luncheons, lectures, programs and other public events.

Both pupils and parents are interested in special school dates in connection with Birmingham high school and grade schools.

The annual Michigan Educational association convention will be held in Detroit on October 11 and 12 and for this convention all schools in the area will be closed. That means two holidays for the pupils. Many families plan fall trips for the week end.

The next holiday will be Thanksgiving Day, and school will be out for the week end. This is another long week for the pupils and parents, when trips may be arranged.

For the Christmas vacation schools will close on Dec. 21 and will not re-open until January 4, providing for a two weeks' vacation.

Early Action Is Anticipated on City Parking

City Commission Expected To Act By Next Monday Night

The first city council meeting Birmingham's city parking situation and the traffic difficulties in the city during the week ending Tuesday evening by the Birmingham City Commission.

Commissioner Milton H. Malender came immediately into the situation with the city council. The "Planning committee" plans for parking are to be made public in the next few days.

Mayor Moody, who has been increasing the number of fully equipped vehicles in the city, will be able to do so, he stated, by the time the city council meets next Monday night.

Commissioner Malin declared that a survey conducted by the city council in the past few days had shown that the number of fully equipped vehicles in the city had increased by 1000 in the past few days.

Mayor Moody asked the City Work Now On Tasks For Peace

Birmingham joined with the rest of the nation Sunday to observe V-J day and to offer prayers of thanksgiving for the end of the war's hostilities. Along with the thanksgiving over the end of actual fighting was a looking ahead into the problems which confront the nation and the world.

Building Arrangements

Entrance will be from the rear into a large lobby, T shaped, with a coat room and concession room, storage rooms, and men's and women's locker and toilet rooms to the east. An attractive entrance will be reached from the street in front of the structure. Below the northeast corner will be a large open space, which will be used for parking.

Various Schools Of City List Teachers For Present Season

Birmingham's list of teachers for the several schools in the city system have been listed for the year and are reported on the job with the schools opening Wednesday of this week. Plans for the current year have been carefully arranged and the work is expected to start off smoothly in all buildings.

REAL OBNOXIOUS WEED

Mrs. Marie Green, of 388 Southfield, found a weed in her back yard that she doesn't like. Reason: the thing burned her skin. She showed the weed to her neighbors. She warned the hand that touched her. The weed was a nettle, but it acted a bit more obnoxious than the State Department of Agriculture had listed. It was a nettle of that little job plant.
