

Bride's Cooking Class Will Be Opened On Friday Morning At 10 As Part of Service of The Birmingham Community House for '46

Beginning Jan. 18 at 10 a. m. there will be a beginner's cooking class at the Community House. Mrs. Clarence Sutton of the Community House staff will be in charge of the class. Mrs. Sutton has had numerous requests as to how she makes her rolls, pie crusts and other foods that appear in the menus.

"I shall be very happy to help the young women of the community with their cooking problems," states Mrs. Sutton. "Many of the women who have talked with me have done little cooking because their husbands have been in one of the services. The schedule will be worked in such a way that each individual will cook for the menu to cover three meals of the day."

The classes will be held each Friday for a period of six weeks. The first meeting on January 18 will not include the cooking of any food. This meeting will be for registration, planning and any requests for the cooking of special foods by the members of the class.

RIGHT SIDE UP

When pouring medicine out of a bottle, always pour away from the label to avoid obliterating the directions. Furthermore, when you hold the label "right side up" it acts as a reminder to read the directions. This is important. Many bottles and many medicines look alike, and by reading the label and directions you will avoid taking the wrong dose or the wrong medicine.
