League Of Women Voters Explains Financial Set-Up

Mrs. Charles Rust, chairman of the League of Women Voters' financial drive, in calling together workers recently, asked Mrs. H. J. Liverance, local president, to discuss the League organization.

Mrs. Liverance stressed the League's strictly non-partisan character which it maintains by never endorsing any candidate for office, but only endorsing legislation in the public welfare. "It has no axe to grind but the greatest good of the greatest number." Mrs. Liverance stressed. "Such legislation as is endorsed is that approved by a representative majority of League members after considerable research, study and thought. In other words, the League is an example of Democracy at work; its entire organization is represented in its officers and its working plans through a representative system.

"The National League, representing 500 communities in the country, is supported almost entirely through pledges from State Leagues. State Leagues, in turn, are supported by the pledges of local Leagues.

Where Money Goes

"The Birmingham drive's funds," pointed out Mrs. Rust, "will go not only to finance the local league's program for education and action which its membership dues cannot do alone because they are kept low so as to invite a large and representative membership, but to fulfill its pledge to the State League. The State League faces a particularly big job this year in trying to expand into the Upper Peninsula."

"How is the League's money spent locally?" asked one of the workers. "Primarily," explained Mrs. Rust, "to promote informed active participation in governmental affairs. Special emphasis today is to help make democracy in the U. S. a success and world peace a possibility. Part of the money goes for general administration, use of the Community House for meetings and general program projects, from speakers at open meetings to public information booths for elections.

"The local League's education committee is working on support of a school building program. The city and county government committee is preparing a layman's report on county government structure. The county health situation is being studied. A city and county handbook of information is being prepared for general distribution. As much information as possible regarding candidates and issues will be collected before April's elections. One of our largest projects at present is to work with the National organization to familiarize citizens with UNO."

Seek Outside Help

Another member wanted to know why the League asks men and non-member women for contributions to its support. Mrs. Rust pointed out that the League is working toward governmental education for all citizens, not just for its members. It is working for the best interest of the community and feels the community is concerned in its efforts.

A long list of national U. S. legislation passed from 1922 to date, which the League worked hard to support, marks milestones along the League's way in its 25 years. Recent recognition of achievement includes its representation at the San Francisco Conference on the advisory council. Miss Anna Lord Strauss, national president, was the only lay woman at the Food and Agricultural Conference in Quebec in 1945.

G. Baldwin Forms His Own Oil Firm

George E. Baldwin, widely known oil man, formerly with the Fuel Oil Corporation of Detroit, announced today the formation of the Baldwin Oil Company with headquarters in the Fox Theatre Building at 2211 Woodward avenue in Detroit.

Stressing Detroit as the industrial hub of the nation, Mr. Baldwin said: "We will supply light and heavy fuels for home heating in the metropolitan Detroit area and heavy fuels for industrial uses."

It is understood that the Baldwin Oil Company has arranged to handle the exclusive distribution of Sinclair heating oils. These products will be delivered into the Detroit area by pipeline.

During the war Mr. Baldwin served as a member of the National Fuel Advisory Panel of OPA.
