

Many a young man or woman has been spoiled because of having parents who have been too lenient in their treatment of their children. Parents should be strict in their discipline, and should not allow their children to do as they please. Parents should be firm in their discipline, and should not allow their children to do as they please.

Some Owners Face Prices and THAT

By G. R. A.

A WORTHY EXAMPLE
Demonstrating the ability of good parents to instill in their children a wholesome respect and regard for the law, the actions of two Birmingham children who went into the Municipal Public Pool at the swimming pool, apply for a transfer of a bicycle license. The girl was about nine years of age, and the boy was about five. They were riding their bicycles on the sidewalk when they were stopped by a police officer. The officer told them that they were riding on the sidewalk, and that they were not supposed to do so. The children were very polite and respectful, and they apologized to the officer. The officer was very pleased with their behavior, and he let them go without any further trouble.
