Holy Name Church Is Scene Of Wakefield-Savage Rites

Before an altar decorated with vases of white tulips, peonies and snapdragons, Jeanne Antoinette Wakefield, daughter of Mrs. Earle Manton Wakefield of Southfield road, and the late Mr. Wakefield, spoke her vows to Charles Morris Savage, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Savage of East Maple avenue. The ceremony took place at 12:30 Saturday in Holy Name church with Father Ralph Barton officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Lawrence McConnell Wakefield. Her gown was of traditional white satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline etched in seed pearls, long sleeves in points over the wrists, and a full skirt extending into a long train. Her veil was of fingertip length and held in place by a pearl pedour of fresh rosebuds. She carried a small colonial bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Neil Wakefield was her sister's only attendant. She wore a dress of aqua crepe with long sleeves and a full skirt. There was a crown of Taisman roses in her hair and she carried a colonial bouquet of the same flowers.

Mrs. Charles Morris Savage

Ernest C. Mansfield served his brother as best man and guests were seated by Paul and Robert Savage, also brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Wakefield chose a gown of rose crepe for her daughter's wedding. Her flower hat was of roses and violets. Mrs. Savage wore a gown of aqua with a flower hat of roses.

Following a reception at Rotunda Inn on Pine Lake, the young couple left for a honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains of Kentucky. For traveling Mrs. Savage chose a white linen suit with white accessories and a large black straw hat. Her carriage was a white orchid.

Upon their return the newlyweds will make their home in Birmingham.
