Rep. Dondero Would Like to See FBI As Independent Agency of Government

Rep. George A. Dondero, 17th Michigan District, took the floor of the House of Representatives the other day to advocate an increased appropriation for the FBI. He said:

"It is not very often—in fact, it is most unusual—that I take the floor in support of an amendment calling for an increased sum in an appropriation bill. But my judgment in this demands that I do that very thing.

"It so happens that I have had some contact and experience with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and particularly with J. Edgar Hoover, the capable and splendid Director of the Bureau.

"There is going on in this world a struggle between two ideologies of government—one which believes that the individual is the master of his government and is everything; the other ideology of government is that the individual is a subject and a number only and that his government, the state, is the master of all. Within the United States that struggle is now going on.

"This increased appropriation is to place in the hands of the Federal Bureau of Investigation additional money and equipment with which to combat that foreign ideology and uphold our own concept of the Republic of the United States. I might say that it has been a great disappointment to me that I have not been able to do this. I have been almost completely frustrated in attempting to deal with this condition within our country.

"This house has heard something about that quite recently when I addressed it on a resolution which was passed by an overwhelming vote of better than 2 to 1, that we may take a look at the inside and see what is going on within our government by people who have no sympathy with our form of freedom and self-government.
