morate.

A majority of national leaders, playing the old game of politics, have led a campaign to hring a stigma upon American business and industry. The masses of workers, aided by government and led by radical leaders, have defitted away from the old-fashioned beliefs of self-reliance, thrift, initiative, etc.; they have heen told that, by supporting the demagogue, they can attain "the abundant life."

So goeth the picturefamiliar to all who beerve and read the signs of these times.

But let's get down to Michigan's State problems.

Right now we witness the dismissal of Sigler, whose 28-inouth record as special prosecutor did more to clean up our Legislature than any past efforts ever did; a State Senate "investigating committee," led by a former Macomb County prosecutor who, during his term of office there, failed to wipe out gaphling activities was responsible for Sigler's dismissal.

Sigler is admittable one of the ablustice.

gambling activities was responsible for Sig-ler's dismissile.

Sigler is admittedly one of the ablest crim-inal lawers ever to rise up in Michigan: he stands for "kicking out the crooks," "sending more crooks to prison," he is, so far as well-ter in the plant citizens of Michigan arrier against the future activities of certain helbers and corruptionists in high places.

Although Michigan elects an Attorney-General, and each county elects and super-ducing a super-ducing the property of the property of the lifegal activities, not much is done by them to restore and maintain law and order.

Sigler's name in Michigan today is synonynous with law-enforcement; we join with Ho ought to become Michigan's next Attorney-General, or even its Governor.

If he does announce for the Governorship on the Republican ticket, he'll get plenty of tatte-wide support.

Michigan very seriously needs a Defender of Decency and Honesty in Government.

If he devides to run for Governor, his camsafin will be on the lively one.

Your City

Four candidates are offering themselves to fill commission two veaancies on the Birmingham Gity Commission, the election for which occurs April 1. They include incumbents Milton F. Mallender and Ralph I. Coryell; George G. Steelman and William L. Martin are the new entrants in the picture.

Personally, The Eccentric, since it is the only Birmingham newspaper, generally, does not take sides in what ought to be a friendly, meighborly contest for Gity Commission places. We believe that local people, having been given the issues and personalities in the matter, can and will make their own choices. However, we are declaring this very minute that Birmingham has neglected the doing of many things in recent years, only part of which may be condoned because of the warenergency. Birmingham now faces its most rapid period of growth and expansion, yet has done too little to prepare for them.

That is, largely, the Commission's job. Mayor Moody, in his personal leadership for the past year, has shown an accelerated tempo on the Commission: he is, by nature, a chap who wants action. But he cannot cover any more ground than the remainder of the Commission will cover with him.

Milt Mallender, born and raised in Birmingham, has proved himself progressive; he possesses ideas, and he is willing, in open and their attend Commission will cover with him.

crally remark. "that chap Mallender is doing all good job." In the Eccentric, incidentally hinks so, though Ralph Coryell for 25 years: Ralph is a fine man, loyal to the best in citizenship; but he does lack the personal power to become articulate and aggressive. We have told him es, within the past week, in personal severable to be come articulate and aggressive. We have told him es, within the past week, in personal severable and Bill Martin each have revealed them selves as desirous of 'keeping up with the times."

Each of the four candidates is telling you, the voters, what he stands for in the way of meeting Birminghan's immediate and future problems.

The Eccentric suggests that you give attention to their utterances, their plans, their promises, their records; then go to the polls April 1 and vote!

The YOUR CITY, Folks . . . no better or no worse than you want it to be.
