Dr. Fox Presides At Meeting of Military Surgeons

When the Association of Military Surgeons met for their first postwar annual meeting, Oct. 9-10-11 in Detroit, the meeting was opened by Dr. Carleton Fox, 321 Lake Park drive. He acted as general chairman of the three-day convention.

The Rev. Charles H. Cadigan of Christ Church, Cranbrook, delivered the invocation, and the meeting of military surgeons from all over the globe was underway.

The convention was designed to acquaint all surgeons with up-to-date methods and medicines discovered during the war, according to Dr. Fox.

In attendance were surgeon generals or their representatives from Sweden, Denmark, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Holland, East Indies, Great Britain, France, Spain, India, Siam, Australia, Argentina, Brazil, Peru, Nicaragua, Mexico, Cuba, Canada, Ireland and the United States.

Panel discussions on Navy nursing, the veterinary, medical administration and pharmacy, acute and complicated fractures, aviation medicine, dentistry and many other subjects were held. Symposiums on psychiatry, facial reconstruction, surgical rehabilitation; and many medicine and method exhibits were scheduled on the program.

In attendance from Birmingham were Drs. William G. Ferguson and James Howell. Mrs. Ray D. Fohey, also of Birmingham, was a member of the Gray Ladies' Committee, which acted as hostesses at the convention.

Nationally, about a million tons of peanuts are expected to be harvested from 3 million acres this fall.

Seek Information on Changes in Zoning

Two Birmingham residents inquired of the Commissioners at their Monday night meeting how to go about modifying the zoning ordinances so that they could change single residences to multiple dwellings.

Property between Lincoln and Canterbury on Southfield and on Woodward avenue, south of Redding would be affected.

Mayor Milton E. Mallender and Acting City Manager H. H. Corson explained how they could get the ordinance changed.

Assessment Roll OK'd

The assessment roll for the new Cherry Court sewer, modified by deleting two lots, was approved by the City Commission at their Monday night meeting.

The changes were made in the original roll when David Ives, owner of one of the lots, objected to being assessed for an improvement which he claimed would be of no benefit to him. The other lot which is vacant, was taken out when the City Commission figured that the assessment on it would never be paid.

The city will pay 20% of the improvement.

'Mystery Trail' For Scouts Ends At Byrnes Lake

Three Birmingham scout troops joined in with other troops in the Northern area for a "mystery journey" over last week end; destination a site at Byrnes Lake.

A Royal Oak Scout troop laid the trail from Lapeer to the lake, and hosts of scouts were driven out to Lapeer to pick it up and carry on to Byrnes Lake. Scouting skills pointed the way to the final destination, and at one point scouts had to build a fire in order to bring out one message, secretly inscribed in invisible ink.

Troop B1, headed by Carl Hilty, Troop B4, headed by Harold Holmes, and Troop B8, headed by William Hooper, Jr., were the Birmingham troops who spent the week end at the lake.

According to Arthur Gillespie, member of the camping and activities comimttee, all scouts cooked their own meals, made up their own camp rolls, and slept in large community tents and pup tents. Sunday afternoon was spent on a nature scavenger hunt, objects of the search being birds' nests, leaves and nuts.
