Some Vets May Get Diplomas Without Any Additional Work

Birmingham veterans and servicemen who have not completed their high school course and do not wish to attend the regular day classes may be interested to know that they can earn their diploma even though not attending high school.

Credit for "in-service" training will be given the ex-serviceman or woman in accordance with the standards of the American Council on Education, according to Dr. William H. Ingham, Birmingham superintendent of schools. Credit will also be given for work completed in the U. S. Armed Forces Institute, in some cases allowing the veterans to graduate with no further study.
