

Discussion of Amendments and THAT

By C. R. A. Kim Sigler Offers Michigan An Opportunity To Redeem Itself

By this time next week Michigan will have held its biennial election, and the day after will have cast into my bed and sleep for a couple of days...

It has been a most interesting and valuable experience to me, I assure you. While for more than a quarter of a century I have never been rather closely associated with public officials and the various problems of government...

I expect, too, that what I have added to my experiences during this campaign will be of much assistance in my performance as an editor during the remainder of my term...

Want Clean Government This role, I assure you, readers of The Clearite, I have done so only because I believe that the state and national politics are what Michigan has needed for many, many years...

So, when Kim Sigler became a special prosecutor for the State Grand Jury at Lansing, I watched him over a period of 29 months in that role...

Since then, you recall, Johnston was indicted for perjury by Judge Herman Dehne, now conducting the Grand Jury in Macomb County...

That sort of statement required course. And Sigler's revelation of it then only revealed the overall character of the chap I intend to vote for next Tuesday.

On the day after Kim Sigler was fired last March, he became a candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket...

In the more than three months now passed that I have been over to Michigan, you will know that his presence on the ballot is the answer to the prayers of thousands of Michigan people...

For they have found in Sigler a man of more than ordinary stature, a man who is always ready to listen to the people...

Proposed Sales Tax Split Is Topic Of Most Argument

Some 250 persons were present at a town meeting Monday night at Baldwin in discussion of the proposed amendment...

The amendment provides for the return to one-third, of the sales tax to cities, villages, townships and school districts...

The meeting was arranged under the joint sponsorship of five Birmingham organizations...

"We believe adoption of this amendment will serve to stimulate interest in the existing shortage of good teachers...

Each school has been asked to provide adult supervision for the group, and it would be helpful if these supervisors...

"I think catastrophe is around the corner" stated Dr. Dwight B. Ireland, superintendent of schools...

"The body of Allen's letter compares Birmingham to Rye, N. Y. in respect to the parking problem and traffic congestion."

Consonets Will Rent For $30; Civ O.K.s Management Plan

Plans for the City's quonset hut project moved into the final stages this week with the City's approval of the "project management plan."

The management plan, which must be approved by the Federal Public Housing Authority before it becomes final, calls for a maximum rent of $30 a month plus the cost of various utilities furnished each unit...

The commission also approved an amendment to the original contract providing that the FPHA administrator can order the removal of the units prior to the expiration of the two-year period...
