Carol J. Fleming Weds Pontiac Man In Simple Rites

A late Saturday afternoon wedding united Carol Jane Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herbert Fleming of Hugo Cross road, and George Sterling Maker of Pontiac, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Maker.

The ceremony was read at 5 p. m. in the Grace Episcopal Church in Detroit with the Rev. B. W. Pullinger officiating. White gladioli decorated the church for the simple service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beige gabardine suit, fashioned with a cardigan neckline, and complemented by brown lizard accessories. Her corsage was of green orchids.

Mrs. Fleming was her daughter's only attendant, and chose for the occasion a dusty pink crepe afternoon gown, fashioned with a V-neckline, and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her black hat had a pink plume, and her flowers were pink carnations and delphiniums.

Best man was the bride's father. Following the service, the new couple left for their wedding reception which was held at the Kingsley Inn, and they will make their home on Riviera Terrace in Pontiac.

The Right Wall

TO READERS of books, the right wall in the west room at LaBelle's holds vast interest. It is the wall of bookshelves. For right unto twenty years it has been, so to speak, where readers and authors meet in Birmingham.

From these laden shelves reading folks have selected countless-hours of reading-to-their-taste. Wherever one's interest leads: to history, fiction, biography, travel, non-fiction, science, religion, juvenile—all are here.

For this is a complete book service which includes the books of all publishers.
