Obituary

Sidney L. Strong

Sidney L. Strong, 3500 John R., Troy Township, died April 3 after a short illness.

He was born November 13, 1857, in Detroit, and was the widower of Eliza Renshaw. His occupation was farming, and he has lived in Troy Township practically all his life, being a member of the Big Beaver Methodist Church.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Lydia Halsey of Troy; three grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.6

Services were held Monday at the Bell Funeral Home with the Rev. Howard Snell of the First Methodist Church officiating. The burial took place at Union Corners Cemetery.

Elizabeth Ann Hamer

Elizabeth Ann Hamer, 2704 Crooks road, died March 31 after a long illness.

She was born in Royal Oak, July 30, 1867, and attended school in that city. She was a member of the St. Matthews Episcopal Church of Detroit.

Surviving are a brother, Edgar, of Royal Oak, and a sister, Mrs. Almire Finch, also of Royal Oak.

Services were held Thursday at the Bell Funeral Home, with Rev. Frederick Meyers of the St. Matthews Church officiating. The burial took place in the Royal Oak Cemetery.

Marion P. Clark

Marion P. Clark, formerly of Birmingham, died March 28 in Beverly Hills, Calif.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Birdsall L. Peters, a son, Peter B. Clark, and two brothers, Albert and Arthur.

Funeral services were held last Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Bell Funeral Home with burial at White Chapel.

John Palmer Wood

Services for John Palmer Wood, 79, of Saginaw, who died in Lakeland, Fla., were held at 11 a. m., Friday at the Blackmore-Tubby Funeral Home in Mayville, Mich., with burial in that city.

The funeralwa s under the auspices of Masonic Lodge No. 77 of Saginaw.

Mr. Wood, who was born in Genesee County, was supervisor of the town for the Pere Marquette Railroad for many years.

He was prominent in Masonic and Republican circles, has held many honorary and life memberships, and was past grand master of the Masonic Grand Council of Michigan.

Surviving are his wife, Anna J., three sons, Bruce A., of Lansing, Lynne K. of Kansas City, and John P. of Birmingham, and a daughter, Mrs. W. A. Scott, of Marine City.

Ancient Cleaning Methods Give Way To Mechanization

The Department of Public Works will soon be able to replace their present hand-operated sewer cleaning devices with modern, mechanized equipment, as the purchase of such equipment at a price of $3,162.35, was approved Monday night by commissioners.

City Manager Donald C. Egbert told commissioners that extentive work on cleaning city sewers was necessary during the next year. Present equipment requires much manual labor and is slow in operation, he said.

"With the present cost of labor, it is not economical to do work of the quantity involved utilizing the hand-operated type of equipment," he said.

Next of Kin Must Write to Lansing for Bonus Forms

Those persons who are next of kin of deceased veterans are also eligible for the Michigan bonus, Miss Blanche Breakey, Veterans' Counselor, stated today.

"In order for those persons to receive the bonus," she said, "they must communicate with the Adjutant General, Lansing 1, Michigan, and request an appropriate application blank, stating in the letter exactly what relationship the applicant bears to the deceased veteran (whether widow, child, parent, brother, sister, etc.)"

The office here in Birmingham cannot get the blanks for next of kin of veterans, she reminded them. The blanks for those bonus applications will only be sent from the Adjutant General's office by direct request from the next of kin.

A One-Third Vote Monday Isn't Bad, But It's Not Our Best, Avows Pluvius

By Helen Bishop

Dropping by our desk with the city election results in his hand, Pluvius Kyndlegg, head of our Valuable Odd Information Department, shook his head at the voters' turn-out.

"Seven thousand voters here in town," he said, "and less than one-third of them, 2,157, feel that their government is important enough to them so that they'll get out and vote on who becomes an active part of it!"

He wagged his head despondently very frightened a little and said, "Still, you know, one-third of the potential voters DID turn out and I suppose lots of them had plenty to do that day but made an effort to get up there. Probly plenty of 'em had flood worries Monday and didn't quite see how they were goin' to do it, but got up to the polls anyway.

Not Too Bad

"It's not as bad as it's been some years and I s'pose the fellers that did turn out are the ones that really think about what's going to happen up there at the City Hall during the next year or so."

He mused awhile but shook his head again.

"Doggone it," he said, "I can't help but feel mighty sorry for all those that didn't put their mark on a ballot! I could almost bet that they're the ones that think all government is heading the wrong way. Still, by golly, they won't get up and do what they can about it.

"It's too late for this election, and I sure don't mean that mebbe the same men wouldn't have been elected as were, but wouldn't it have been better when all votes were tallied to have had a nice big proportion of all the registered voters listed up there—like 5,000 or 6,000, or more?"

'Said Their 'Say'

Yep, Pluvius felt bad about that 2,150 figure. A wonderful little city like Birmingham, he told us, with every resident extolling its virtues like a one-man Chamber of Commerce, should sure have been able to do better than that!

"Maybe," he consoled himself, "those 5,000 or 6,000 others here who didn't use their privilege will rouse themselves for the next election and bring in a vote.

"'Til then," he tossed over his shoulder as he left, "the only ones in town that I'll think of proudly are the ones who got up and said their say via the city ballots Monday."
