Opening of Sylvan Glen Course Set for This Week End

Another one of the district's public golf courses will make its opening this week end when Sylvan Glen opens up for the season. The bad weather has delayed the starting of the season for several weeks but the course is now in shape and ready to go, according to Bill Catto, who will manage the golf course again this season. He will also serve as pro and greenskeeper "all" the popular course on Rochester road.

The club house has been opened to Bill Catto, who will manage the dining room and bar this year. The clubhouse has been newly decorated for the season. Catto stated that the 13th and 14th holes which were rearranged last year have developed well and many of the other holes were improved by the rebuilding of grass tees.

Bridges along the creek have all been repaired or replaced and an extensive tree trimming program has been carried out. Another new feature, which Catto feels will improve golfing conditions greatly, this summer, is the laying of drainage tile all over the course. Much new equipment has been added to aid the greenskeeper's staff.
