'Wildcat Willie' Presented by Barnum Homeroom

Last Tuesday, March 27, a play was given at the Barnum Junior High School by the eighth grade homeroom. The play "Wildcat Willie's Lucky Number," was given in the morning as an assembly for the eighth grade and repeated in the afternoon for the seventh and ninth grades. It was well received by students and teachers alike.

The cast included: "Wildcat Willie" Robert Latham; "Believes in Luck" "Gladys," his sister, Margaret Ireland; "Joe," his pal, Joe Bachman; "Joe's sister," Claire Shinnick; "Vern," another pal, George Jafano; his sister, Robin; Jennifer, Mrs. Wilkins; Willie's mother, Mary Lou Gregory who substituted for Mary Richards who was suddenly taken ill.

Mary Lou Gregory organized and directed the play. Harry Flantz, Mary Robertson and Thomas Luscombe had charge of the properties. The play was introduced by a baseball tune sung by Alma Jean Nordman and Robert Latham.

Piano numbers were played before and after the play by two talented young musicians, Sally Carrigan and Mary Grace Powder. Neari Keener acted as announcer for the assembly.

At the close of the play, Miss Watson, homeroom sponsor, was presented with a gift.

Now that the sun has melted the ice away from the bottom of our old garage doors, and I can actually get the fool things open without monumental effort, I decided it was time to improve the situation. After looking around a bit, I found that the Berry Aluminum Door, with Village headquarters at 453 S. Woodward, was just about perfect. The Berry door has many advantages—it fairly floats up in response to a feather weight touch, and disappears inside the garage. Never needs painting, and can't rust or rot. Imagine! Call 3388 for information.

Even speculators like me who've waited till the last minute for that new Easter suit, will find a marvelous selection at McDonald's, 223 N. Woodward. You'll parade right on through spring and summer in your beloved "Mick Cricketer," with its softly muted stripes and that new longer look of 47. McDonald's have just the blouse to set it off to perfection, whether you prefer a flatteringly feminine printed sheen, one of those always smart "Ship-n-Shore" tailored cottons.

Happy is the bride the sun shines 'on, particularly if she is wearing one of those exquisite bridal veils custom-made by Gladys M. Blount, milliner, 509 S. Washington. "Royal" Oak, Mrs. Blount has a wonderful selection of imported English illusion veils which she will fashion into a headdress that will make you look like an angel on your wedding day. And to make the picture perfect, she will design just the right headpieces for your bridesmaids, in colors to match their gowns.

One sure way to please the bride and the groom too, for that matter, is with a Gift Certificate from Brass Unlimited, Woodward Avenue at the 14-3/4 mile. There your favorite newly-weds can have the time of their lives, picking out solid brass fireplace fixtures and screens, decorative brass plaques, or perhaps a basket for fireplace wood. In any event you can be sure that a gift from Brass Unlimited will become a cherished addition to the home and heartbeats, to be treasured for years and years.

For years we have been driving about the country, stopping at every sign that said "Antiques"—little realizing there were 'acres of diamonds' right at hand. For you who have given your heart and your home to Colonial furnishings and who are not satisfied with "authentic" reproductions, Mary Thornton, 205 Pierce St., has the most outstanding collection and antiques in this part of the country. Whether you need an old pewter candle holder or a silver secretary—you'll find it at this shop.

Be sure to turn on WEXL (1340 on your dial) at 4:15 every Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for a refreshing change from the usual "blood and thunder" children's programs. Elliott Edwards, who is a resident of Birmingham, you know, writes and narrates the adventures of Bricket, the Midget Wildcat, and Padget, the Gifted Gadget with an imaginative freshness that is just delightful. We'll wager that Mr. Redies' stories will soon be heard by moppets all over the country.

Easter plants and cut flowers are on parade in profusion this week at Bell's Greenhouse, 928 S. Woodward. Actually, I found them all so lovely. It was hard to make a choice. The Easter lilies are unusually fine this year—tall and stately, with very large blooms. Or you may select a colorful spring plant, with hydrangeas, tulips, hyacinths, and so on, to choose from. Bell's have lots of fresh-cut flowers, or will make up a bouquet that can't fail to please your lovely lady.

WALNUT LAKE SCHOOL NEWSLETTER

Dear Pam: The kids at Walnut Lake School were feeling pretty swell Monday and Tuesday when there was no school because of storm.

The Metropolitan School Spelling Bee was held Friday at Walnut Lake School. The fifth through eighth grades participated in the bee, which was won by Patty Keen. Barbara Thorne was runner up. This is the second year Patty has won.

Saturday night the gang congregated at Norm and Barb Wilson's to dance and generally fuss around.

Barbara Thorne, who is number four on our eighth grade graduating class personality parade, has a birthday April 28, when she will be fourteen. Her favorite color is blue and she gets all starry-eyed when she hears the song "Gully." Her pet subject in school is arithmetic and her ambition is to do secretarial work. Her favorite food is ice cream and horseback riding is a sport that rates her approval. She thinks Shirley Temple is "in" in the picture star department. She likes dancing but can't stand conked people.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Thorne of 2075 Lakewood drive.

Fun in next week to hear all about Jim Wallace.

Water Pageant Is Pronounced 'Great Success'

The Shaker's circus water pageant, which took place in Barnum pool last Monday afternoon and Tuesday and Wednesday nights, was a great success.

It started out with a ray circus parade, followed by many interesting and entertaining acts. In the pretty penny number, the penies on the float, her costumes were made to glow by the use of ultraviolet ray and special lighting.

Royalty was represented by

Norma Carnegie, who as Princess Tutu, supposedly a direct descendant of King Tut, demonstrated the Egyptian crawl. The skill of the girls was especially brought out in the Siamese twins number in which they did back flips and somersaults, linked together in various ways. I. Swan, Jack knife, handstand and front flips were dives gracefully done by Janet Lockrow, Shirley Green, Betty Whiteley, and Grace Sheldon. Humor was added to the performance by Sue Hershey's light-rope walk.

Five girl clowns and Henry Staves, a professional clown in one or more corporations at about 9,000,000—several large manufacturing companies having stockholders than employing.
