Twilight League Playoff Games Begin Tonight

Ed Kirbert, local "Y" secretary reports that all teams have an equal chance to annex the Twilight League Championship as the playoffs start on "Torrey" and "Howarth" fields this evening.

Wolverines is pitted against Equitable Life Insurance at Howarth, and Ritters' Beer Store takes on Flying Saucers at Torrey. Games start at 8:45 p.m. Volunteer Firemen's Association has the bye tonight but meets the winner of the play-off game next Monday.

In games played this past week Gene Richardson of the Flying Saucers shut out Equitable Life Insurance with 4 hits in a well pitched game at Torrey Field. His teammates rang up 9 hits good for 9 runs as they breezed to victory. Fifth with a homerun and a single led the Saucers while Sutton got three of the four Equitable hits.

Ritters' Beer Store just eked out a 10-10 tie against the Flying Saucers as their late inning rallies overcame a 7-lead. Taking advantage of the waning daylight and some clever base-running on the part of Clay

Thomas Jefferson, founder of the American Patent System, has the foresight to provide the incentive which have generated the inventive and productive power by which this nation has been kept free. Inducement to create must offer the inventor assurance of reward proportionate to the value of what he creates. That inducement is the promise of exclusive control for 17 years of the product of his diligence and sacrifice.
