America's most important source of heat, light and power is also ... America's best fuel for Home Heating

THE WISE AND EQUESION TED HOMEOWNER who uses coal to heat his home is a principal beneficiary of the miraculous substance that has made our civilization miraculous substance that has made our civilization possible.

Second only to the soil itself among the natural, inexhautible resources of the world, coal is the element that maintains modern industrialism, drives 74 out of every 100 locomotives, generates 50% of our electric light, is indispensable to the making of steel, was the base of 85% of our war plastics. It is no wonder, then, that this versatile, plentiful, energy-packed mineral is also the best all-around fuel for the home fires. Its heat is steady and uniform, therefore healtfulful; it is an eminently safe fuel; it is the most economical of all fuels. Modern mining and processing methods are making coal clean and dust-free; modern coal-burning equipment and controls are making it convenient and carefree.

But one of its principal and matchless advantages is coal's plenty. Heating equipment is a long-range investment, and coal is the one fuel you can be sure investment, and coal is the one fuel you can be sure of obtaining one, ten or twenty years from now. It is the one fuel which was not coupon-rationed during two world wars; the one fuel whose future supply is beyond question—not within one year or five, but within three thousand! Though sizes and varieties may at times be temporarily scarce, COAL ITSELF WILL NOT FAIL YOU.

If you are now the possessor of coal-burning equip-ment — especially a modern stoker and automatic controls—vou may congratulate yourself. If you are building or buying a new home, or replacing old heating equipment, think long and carefully before you plan on any fuel but Coal, now as in the past and future America's best fuel for bome beating.
