Couple Leaves on Bermuda Trip After Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. William Albert Rosso left for a wedding trip to Bermuda after their marriage at the First Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon.

The bride, the former Marjorie Ann Lotz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lotz, wore a gown of ivory brocaded satin with a high necked basque bodice, the circular collar of white outlined the yoke of marquisette. The gown was made with a full skirt which was caught in the back for a bustle effect, and ended in a long train. Heirloom lace, from her mother's wedding gown, formed her head dress, which held a finger tip veil of ivory illusion lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia.

The guests were seated by Robert and Richard Lotz, brothers of the bride, Clarence Mentis and John Nowles of Rochester.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. H. Glen Harris and the Rev. George E. Bentschler. The church was trimmed with screens of green, and large standards of gold mums, with gold candelabras and gold candles carrying out the color plan. A reception was held at the Community House following the ceremony. The bride's mother was gowned in gray crepe, and which she wore a pink hat and matching gloves, and a corsage of pink carnations. Hall-Hart Rites Read Saturday at St. James Church
Miss Elizabeth Boies Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart, became the bride of Robert T. Hall, son of M. M. and Mrs. Robert C. Hall, in a beautiful ceremony performed in St. James Episcopal Church on Saturday evening. The Rev. Harold E. Towne and Dr. David L. Thornberry officiated at the candlelight service which was read before a bank of greens and white mums which decorated the chancel of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin. It was made with a tight, high-necked bodice, which was buttoned up the front. The high neck was finished with a small collar of heirloom rose point lace. The long sleeves ended in points which extended over the backs of her hands. The full skirt ended in a medium train. The finger-tip veil of illusion was trimmed with a wide border of rose point, which also formed the tiara which held the veil in place. Her bridal bouquet was of white stephanotis and centered with white gartias.

Miss Hart's only attendant was her sister, Virginia Campbell Hart, whose frock was of turquoise faille and was made with cap sleeves and a long skirt. A tiny bonnet making faille and flame-colored Birds of Paradise completed her costume.

Ronald Hall was his brother's best man, while the ushers were William E. Hartman, Jr., Walter L. Fry, Jr., Samuel S. Vetraino and Robert W. Jones. The Hart home was the scene of the reception which followed. Mrs. Hart had selected a gown of gold taffeta, with a matching jacket. With it she wore a tiny hat of brown satin, with brown orchids forming her corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Hall, wore a grey-green dinner gown with a small wine colored hat, trimmed with a matching feather.

The bride selected a cocoa brown suit with a matching hat and accessories for her wedding trip. She wore the gardenias from the center of her bouquet. The couple will make their home on Southfield road upon their return.
