Disabled Veterans May Take Any Job, Says VA Chief

Disabled veterans may accept any job or position and still receive full benefits for service-connected permanent disabilities, according to a statement this week by VA Administrator General Omar N. Bradley.

In an effort to combat misleading information that has been circulated regarding reduction or cancellation of compensation, General Bradley said: "From time to time false information has been given to veterans with service-connected disabilities in our hospitals that the veteran is liable to suffer a reduction in his compensation if he takes a position and receives remuneration for it."

"This is untrue. Any handicapped veteran with a service-connected disability may take a position and receive pay for it and still receive full benefits for his permanent disability."

No Reduction in Rate
"The basic statutes and regulations specifically provide that there shall be no reduction in the rate of compensation for individual success in overcoming the handicap of an injury."

Many veterans are holding full-time jobs in factories or the professions and, at the same time, are receiving full benefits for their disabilities. General Bradley urged veterans new in hospitals to become job-holders when their condition permits.

Disabled veterans filing disability claims should be reminded that payment on a disability claim begins from the date of the veteran's separation from the armed forces provided the claim is filed within one year from that date. Payment on an awarded claim filed after the one-year period starts from the date the claim originally is filed.

The soybean is now one of America's leading crops—produces 15 per cent of the total production of edible fats and oils and is the largest single protein concentrate for feeding farm animals.

Bilbo's House That Mike Built

This is "Dream House No. 2" which Mike Morrissey, Vicksburg, Miss., contractor, testified before the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee that he built on an island in a lake near Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, Mississippi Democrat who is under fire for allegedly accepting gratuities from contractors for helping them get Army airfield building jobs. Morrissey said he built the island, too, and the lake. It's all on Bilbo's big farm near Poplarville, Miss.

Major J. D. Craig Will Show Pictures of Combat Flying

Major J. D. Craig, ace cameraman, explorer and author, will show his latest adventure color movies at Detroit Town Hall Wednesday morning, January 23, at eleven o'clock in the Fisher Theatre.

The pictures, to be presented for the first time in Detroit at Town Hall in conjunction with a lecture, were taken by the famous cameraman while he was serving with the Army Air Forces, and were just recently released from government censorship.

"The film is an exciting action story of the combat flier, and is said to be one of the most spectacular documents of the war."

Major Craig's popular book, "Danger is My Business," and the pictures of his adventure as a deep sea diver, established him several years ago as one of the country's first "soldiers of fortune." His career has taken him all over the world, and to Hollywood where he continued to court danger taking "thrill" shots.

Guernsey Cow Sets Production Record

A registered Guernsey cow, Longacre Miss Lou, owned by Bruce L. Beaudette, of Birmingham, has completed a creditable herd improvement record of 103,814.5 pounds of milk and 824.2 pounds of butterfat. She was milked 130 times while on test.

Miss Lou is a daughter of the famous Guernsey sire, Sunnynmede Bold Gold, that has thirty-six sons and daughters in the Performance Register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS work overtime when the nights are long and the days are dark. They don't do their best work, either, unless the lamp bulbs are kept free from dust and dirt . . . unless they're the proper size—neither too large nor too small . . . and unless they have shades that provide maximum glareless light.

Be sure you have plenty of spare light bulbs on hand, too. Your dealer has them or you'll find them at any Edison office—in all sizes—all modestly priced. You can exchange your burned-out bulbs at any Detroit Edison office. There's no charge for this service. Just bring an Edison service bill for quick identification.
