MICHIGAN'S MOST FAMOUS STUDENT ...

Of THE hundreds of thousands of boys and girls who have studied in Michigan. Thomas Alva Edison is the most famous. Yet the man who did so much for humanity never had more than a few years of formal education.

of formal education.
You may have read that Edison, the boy, was banished from the Port Huron schools for dreaminess in class—that his teacher called him "addled"—and that he learned the three R's from his mother. Later, when the three K's from his mother. Later, when in his teens, he worked on the Grand Trunk railroad. Fortunately for every one of us, his train had a daily lay-over of nearly five hours in Detroit. For Thomas A. Edison, high school and college were an ancient building, the Young Men's Society Library, on Jefferson Avenue, just a few doors east of Woodward. Between runs, he buried himself in its books, devouring them, not by subject or author, but by shelf and section.

Throughout his life, this thoroughness was characteristic with him. It was the quality that carried him through three thousand unsuccessful theories before he quality that carried him through three thousand unsuccessful theories before he invented the incandescent tamp—fifty thousand abortive experiments before he created the storage battery. "Genius," he was fond of saying, "is one per cent inspiration, ninery-nine per cent perspiration."
Few of us have Mr. Edison's thoroughness, his patience, his capacity for concentration. But we at Detroit Edison realize tranon. Dut we are Derroit Edison realize that our herringe from him is both an inspiration and an obligation—an obliga-tion to continue his efforts to make life more comfortable. That is why we are constantly trying to develop new and better ways for electricity to serve you.
