Rosalie Frank Wed Saturday in Lovely Evening Ceremony

The Michigan room of the Statler Hotel was banked with white flowers last Saturday for the services which united Rosalie Betty Frank and Melvin Kolbert in marriage in a double ring ceremony at which the Rabbi Morris Adoroff officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Samuel Frank and the late Mrs. Frank of West Long Lake road, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Kolbert of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Given away by her father, Rosalie chose a full-skirted gown ending in a circular train and fashioned with a sweetheart neckline which was edged in rosepoint lace from her mother's wedding dress. Falling from the Duchess coronet was a fingertip veil of rosepoint lace which covered a long, train-length veil of silk tulle. The bridal bouquet was of white orchid and stephanotis.

The five bridesmaids wore identical holiday green chiffon velvet Juliet-style gowns with deep cut diamond shaped necklines and long sleeves, which formed points over the hands. They carried sprays of green orchids.

The headresses of the matron-of-honor, Mrs. Jerome Frank, sister-in-law of the bride, and the maid-of-honor, Margery Batt of St. Louis, Mo., were the only difference in the outfits of the attendants or they were of two-tone green ostrich feathers while the bridesmaids wore little green ostrich feather hats that matched their dresses.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Mrs. Milrod-Sagor of Glenview, Ill.; Mrs. Seymour Jones and Mrs. Jerome Sosenkari, both of Detroit.

The best man was Milton Rayer, brother-in-law of the groom, while Jerome Frank, the bride's brother of Detroit, Alvin Rayer, also of Detroit, Seward Kolbert of New York City and Ardo Friend of Dayton, O., served as ushers. Kieth Frank and Lynn Rayer, nephews of the bride and groom, were ring bearers.

Mrs. Kolbert selected a gold trimmed, plum colored dress of silk crepe for the nuptial. Her corsage was a purple orchid.

A reception for all those attending the wedding followed the ceremony in the Grand Ballroom of the Statler, from where the couple left for a two weeks' honeymoon to New Orleans. Upon their return they plan to make their home in Detroit.

For the trip, the new Mrs. Kolbert donned a double-breasted red wool suit with patch sleeves, accented by brown accessories, over which she wore a beaver coat and the orchids from her bridal bouquet.

Young Set Sees the New Year in Various Ways

By Mary Anne Foster

New Year's Eve and the "mumming after" proved in many ways to be Birmingham's younger set this year with a bevy of cocktail parties, open houses, New Year's breakfasts and slumber parties.

Kitty Wallace and Barbara Fier were co-hostesses at a four p. m. cocktail party at Kitty's home on Lone Pine road, while on Wing Lake road festivities started for a large number of the college crowd at 10 o'clock. That was the beginning time for Mary Jane Sidway's open house.

The Community House Dance, this year sponsored by the Black and White Club, always attracts a large number of the high school and college crowd and this year was no exception. More than 400 saw the new year in there to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne."

Scrambled Eggs and Bacon

From the dance some of the young set trekked out to Bob Saffell's on Larchlea for ice cream and pop at his open house and then to Janet Fishback's for scrambled eggs and bacon later that morning, while another party was under full swing out at Jack Critton's.

Others went from the dance to Bill and Gordon Saunders' open house. And for those who didn't dance, there was skating there earlier in the evening. This skating-skiing-open house is an annual affair with the Saunders boys, but this year the skiing was missing from the festivities. No snow!

Tumbling into bed in the not so wee hours of the morning were guests of Betty Vaile of Pilgrim road and Sis Daeschner of Bernwyn drive, who both invited some of the girls in following their respective New Year's Eve celebrations.
