HOW TO Care For Your Dog

By Erik Bergshagen
(Bergshagen, well-known Birmingham authority on dogs, their care and habits, welcomes letters from readers concerning special dog problems. Write him in care of The Eccentric.)

The dog is subject to a number of troublesome skin diseases classified generally as parasitic or non-parasitic. In most cases a diagnosis can be made by the characteristic lesions found upon examination.

However, in many types of skin infections, microscopic examination of skin scrapings is necessary to determine whether the cause is parasitic and to identify the parasite. Your veterinarian can do this for you and prescribe proper treatment. Remember that most skin conditions, including scabies and mange, can be successfully cleared if diagnosed early and treatment is started at once.

Some recommendations for maintaining a good skin and hair coat on your dog are:
"The addition of cod liver oil, fish oils, or the vitamin oils to the diet will enhance the coat giving it gloss and lustre."
Brush the coat daily with a stiff bristled or wire brush, to remove dirt and other foreign matter and to stimulate the hair follicles and prevent the hair from matting.

When bathing the dog don't use strongly medicated soap. Use a mild hand or toilet variety.

Sunlight is a good curative agent for many types of skin diseases. Veterinarians often employ ultraviolet light therapy.

Treat your dog's skin as you would your own—it is just as sensitive and will react to the same irritants.

George Bosworth Declared Boys' Ping-Pong Champ

George Bosworth 13, of 555 W. Frank street, is now the city boy ping-pong champion, having defeated Dick Emery in the finals held last Friday by a close score of 21 to 18, according to Franklin Whitney, Birmingham recreation director.

Aubrey Brown, 13, of 119 Purdy, took the girls' championship by a score of 21-19 against Mary Adams to become the all-city girls' ping-pong champ.

Bobby Jackson defeated Tim Baldwin in the badminton finale to become the 1947 champion, with a score of 21-14. Tim, who is not as high as the racket is long, fought so well that he was made a junior champion and given a special championship award by Boyd Larsen, tournament supervisor.

Finalists in the badminton event were Bob Jackson, Dick Dutton, Butch Marks, Sam Stinson, Gordon Neuch, Tom Kaiser, Ann Rutledge, Connie Cavette, Andy Mehard, George Moody, Dan Robbins, Jack Donnelly, Tim Baldwin, Roy Stammen, Pete Seehar and Don Daniels.
