

Warn Business Men Not to Buy 'Taps' About WAA Sales

Birmingham business men are warned by the Detroit office of War Assets Administration to beware of persons offering to supply "inside" information—at prices as high as $75—on how to make quick purchases of scarce war surplus goods.

Scores of requests for credit, as well as orders for such hard-to-get items as automobiles, tires, electric motors and building materials, have been received by WAA in the past few days.

Investigation by WAA compliance agents disclosed that merchants and others were told that they would be supplied with exclusive lists showing the location of many scarce items that could be purchased by mail and on credit. No Retail Sales.

They were directed to send requests for credit to WAA offices outside of Michigan. By the time the letters had been referred to the Detroit office, the tipsters were operating in another part of the State.

WAA officials pointed out that war surplus is not sold at the retail level, and no agents or representatives are employed to furnish information to prospective customers. The law requires that wide public notice be given to all sales and this is done through regular business channels.

Anyone interested in buying can obtain complete information by writing the Detroit WAA office, Box 471, Roosevelt Park Post Office, Detroit 32.

Are staff and quaint. Yet if they were omitted, Some readers would faint.

Men Plan to Visit Sons at Y Camp Next Week End

Dr. John K. Ormond revealed this week that all "Y" camps are in operation and going strong after the first week. Camp Mahngokah-see at Hale, Mich., has more than thirty Birmingham boys in attendance he said.

Local leaders giving assistance to the program are Homer Roberts, Howard Sumner and Miles Robinson. Reports state that the fishing is grand, the weather hot and the program moving right along.

Among the dads journeying to Camp Nissokone for the Last-Dad week end July 12 will be: Martin L. Butzel, Donald M. Chaffee, Charles D. Hawley, Bertram C. Ketchum, Arbie O. Thalacker, John S. Townsend, Preston R. Weir, Howard M. Wert, H. B. Stubbs.

These dads are now planning how they will take their sons in the annual camp ball game featured each year. A circus and water carnival are also on the program and everyone is looking forward to a fine week end.

Paper Airplane.

John Stone reports all campers in good health, having a splendid time and enjoying the good food.

Gene Hubbard, popular teacher at Baldwin High School and Camp Program Director at Camp Olive, has a capacity camp of 214 boys. The program is moving smoothly under his guiding hand with the help of Ted Laird, Jac Phister, Larry Bunyan, Bob Brungraber and Hugh Morrow, Birmingham boys serving as counselors.

Swimming, canoeing, nature study and crafts are the most popular camp activities with the evening campfires receiving a heavy vote as the boys' favorite.

Visiting Sunday is July 9 and many Birmingham families will be having dinner in camp, Ormond stated.

Without Reservations—Mayans, Woodward Ave. at Oak St. is the place to give the entire family a treat this holiday week end by taking them to luncheon or dinner.

The nicest part is that you can enjoy delicious meals in a restful atmosphere without making reservations in advance. Mayans has been beautifully decorated to please an exacting clientele, and the supervision of Mrs. Hale is excellent.

John Lunch served every day beginning at 12 noon; dinner at 5, and Mayans is open Sunday and holidays from noon until 9.

Hoiman asked me where he could get a pair of colorful swimming trunks like the boys wear at Walkill Beach in Honolulu. Hoiman said ever since his brother Volman got out of the Navy he has been raving about the costumes worn by the beach boys, as well as the hula girls. So I sent him a pair of swimming trunks, Men's Wear, 136 N. Woodward, to see the new line of McGregor and Volman. The next thing I heard Hoiman had come back with a note for me saying he had bought a pair of Volman. Walkill—here we come.

Did you know there is a place in Birmingham where you can have any make of washing machine repaired? I refer to Baugh's Bike Shop, 341 S. Woodward that carries parts for every washing machine make. No need to wait for parts to be obtained and you can depend on prompt service. Baugh's also service, operate and sell Whizzer Motors that have become so very popular of late. Just call 9777 for pickup and delivery service on washing machines, bikes, or lawnmowers. No need to wreck those nylon's getting the mower in your car—call Baugh's.

Of course you've seen the Bennett "Flexscreen" safety fireplace curtains advertised in the better home magazines, but did you know that Brass Unlimited, Woodward Ave. at the 14 Mile Road carries them in stock? Flexscreens are metal mesh curtains on traverse rods that glide open at a touch of the Unipul control. If you're leasing, you'll like the portable frame type Flexscreen, just like John Normie, editor of Better Homes and Gardens selected for his own home. Brass Unlimited makes permanent Flexscreen installations in fireplace openings up to 5-feet. Open daily, except Monday, noon to 7.

My great-grandfather used to say that maple trees should be tapped, for sap, by the light of a full moon, with a soft southeast wind blowing. But for the past several years I've been delighted to find maple syrup anywhere at all. No doubt you've had the same experience I have, and therefore will be delighted that Stroup's Market, Wabek Bldg., have real maple syrup on hand, from Vermont, Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. I always thought the very best maple syrup came from Michigan or Vermont, but Stroup's tell me the syrup from Pennsylvania is simply wonderful. Better try it.

The Apple Orchard, Adams Road, is announcing a revision of its program for preschool children. Miss Morse, director, will conduct classes for children aged two, three, four, and five, beginning in September, and you can enroll your child now for one or two mornings a week. The children will enjoy instructive sessions with music, games, and rhymes, and the program will give you a bit of extra free time that most young mothers can use to good advantage. Miss Morse is asking all her friends, and others interested to enroll the children by July 12. Phone 3191.
