Parents must be eager at all times to become increasingly understanding and increasingly wise.

A fundamental principle to remember is that no experience is lost. "During the experimental behavior of children, each child competes with every other child and it is normal to want and expect human response. There is a cause back of all human behavior and children try to find which to retain for regular behavior, often discarding of their own accord undesirable traits; A very significant point is how a child gets along with others his own age."

Don't put all the responsibility on the child. "Persistence is a normal characteristic of all children. Consider the question often asked by a child, 'How would you like to be your own little boy?'"

"It is important that parents get children ready for release from authority. Emphasis on agreement and success rather than disagreement and failure. Hasty, tension and worry tend to narrow the adult's perspective in regard to the whole behavior picture of a child."

It's been said that a piece of Mrs. Ballard's lemon pie would soften the hearts of the wicked, cause strong men to cry like babies and encourage babies to hand out raises. Imagine then, Mrs. Ballard's dismay when her electric range broke down the very day her own husband's boss was coming to dinner! But a call to Detroit Edison saved the day... and the dinner. The trouble-shooter who arrived so quickly was able to locate the difficulty and, fortunately, to make repairs on the spot. At no charge (except for replacement parts, Detroit Edison will repair many home appliances—in many cases, right-in your home. It's one of the steps Detroit Edison takes to help you get the most from all the electricity you buy.
