the parade at the flag pole before the city hall.

Speaker of the day will be Major General Stanley Reinhart who served in both World War I and World War II. During the first war he was aide to General Paul G. Hain, who later became chief of staff.

In World War II, Reinhart commanded the 65th Infantry Division, the Hawaiian Department, the Russians in Germany and was military governor in Austria for a year.

Organizes 65th Division

He was at Pearl Harbor and afterwards became Deputy Chief of Staff, the Hawaiian Department. He organized the 65th Infantry Division, trained it and took it overseas for active combat participation. His wife was resident of Birmingham while he served during this war, and when he was discharged he joined her here.

Before the speech by Reinhart, impressive wreath-laying ceremonies will be held at the headquarters of the Moms Club, the DAR, the Y.W., the American Legion, the Y.W.O. and the auxiliaries will take part in the ceremonies. Mayor Ralph A. Main will represent Birmingham when he places a wreath in memory of the war dead.

Throughout the Memorial Day Program in Baldwin High School Band will play, and will sound taps and play the National Anthem to close the ceremonies.

Constitutional Revision Is Aim of League Members

Delegates of the Birmingham League of Women Voters returning from a three-day state convention of the league held May 21-23 at Prospect Point, Spring Lake, Mich., reported that chief business accomplished was adoption of a year's program to include plans to implement a revision of the Michigan state constitution as the first and most important item and a study of state and local government courses for dependent, neglected, delinquent and afflicted children.

Reporting the delegation from the Birmingham League was Mrs. F. G. Garrison, president, and with her went Mrs. W. W. Williams, state League second vice-president; Mrs. Allan Lutz, program chairman; Mrs. S. James Duncan, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Liverance, Mrs. Peter Loomis, Mrs. Philip Pretz and Mrs. C. N. Blunk.

A state budget of $4,945 was adopted and new state-by-laws passed. A state-wide election was appointed to raise funds for a paid executive secretary. Four new directors were elected to the state board but officers, including Mrs. Millard Jacobson of Grand Rapids, president, will hold over for another year.

Same as 100 Years Ago

The delegates from 15 Leagues heard Frank Seidman, Grand Rapids tax expert, talk on the Michigan Tax Muddle, at the opening dinner held at Spring Lake Country Club, in which he recommended a three-point tax program for the state to bring Michigan out of its present "tax muddle."

Michigan's system of raising revenue for local communities," Mr. Seidman said, "is basically about the same 100 years ago. Let's clear the decks of old timber and start on a new basis by revising the state constitution so that it will permit adoption of taxing policies in keeping with the most scientific basis."

Seidman's program is:

- (1) Give the localities more taxing power so they would have the authority to add supplemental rates to existing state taxes, thus opening a brand new field of revenue for the state without all the expense of collecting local nuisance taxes or of securing arbitrary amounts of state aid.
- (2) Appoint a permanent state-local commission whose duty would be to coordinate state-local fiscal planning.
- (3) Arouse the people of the state to the need of a change in our constitution that will permit the adoption of a fair, just and equitable system of taxation.

At Bottom of List

"There is not one item in our present tax system based on ability to pay" he emphasized. "Michigan has long been rated by tax students as close to the bottom of the list of tax enlightened states because our basic tax system, both locally and state-wide, violates nearly every principle sound taxation."

Tracing the tax difficulties from the time of the 15-mil tax limitation amendment in 1932, Seidman reviewed the "patchwork" done to meet the rising costs of government.

"With the amendments added last year, established in 1932, the bonus and diversion of the sales tax," he said.

the four powers—the United States, England, Russia and France—haven't definitely outlined their basic policy, Pollock asserted.

Iron Curtain Falls

"The disagreements arising out of the German problem are not all the fault of the Russians, as is commonly believed. The French made the original disagreements," he declared.

The Russians, who didn't want the French to be included as one of the occupying powers, picked up the cue and called this point to the attention of England and the United States. Since no one could agree, the Russians said they would go ahead with their own policy in their own zone, Pollock explained.

"That was what the iron curtain fall—in the fall of 1945," he said.

One thing the occupation has resulted in is the practice of sitting down and trying to settle matters by discussion, as well as giving the four powers some hitherto unknown facts concerning procedures of international cooperation.

Agree Negatively

"On the negative side, where there was some action to be taken against the Germans, then we found the four powers agreeing," Pollock stated.

"We accomplished a great deal, although each of the occupying powers carried out the program in its own way."

Since the French and Russians are using much of the food supply in their zones for their occupation forces and exporting any surplus to Russia or France, the American and British zones must be supplied with food from the outside, the speaker explained.

"In the American zone, for example, the land can only raise 25 per cent of the food needed for a marginal existence; hence, the other 75 per cent, which formerly was supplied with food from the zone, must be supplied from the Russian or French zones, must be supplied from the United States, primarily," Pollock emphasized.

"How long one can expect the German people to continue to live under these conditions without an outbreak and without any hope for the future, I don't know," Pollock pointed out.

Unless Germany is allowed to recover to the extent that it can pay its own way, it will pull down the economy of the United States, he concluded.
