Not to the great majority of farmers hereabouts, at any rate. For he's the Edison Farm Service Advisor—a specialist in electricity... in electrical appliances and equipment for home and farm. From long experience, farmers know it pays to consult him—know his advice to be accurate and impartial.

His advice is accurate because he's kept up-to-the-minute on all electrical developments by the constant research and experiments of the Detroit Edison Company, in close cooperation with your County Agent and Michigan State College.

His recommendations are impartial because he doesn't sell farm

Ask for the Edison man next time you're in town. He can give you cost-estimates on new equipment, arrange practical demonstrations of that equipment at work or help plan a new wiring system. In many other ways, too, he's glad to be of service—and there's no obligation.

More Power to Michigan Farmers . . . ELECTRICALLY!
