

Junior Bowlers Make Progress

The small fry turning out for the YMCA bowling group at the local alleys on Saturday mornings are beginning to feel their pins; that is to say, send them "here and there" as they rack up strikes and spares.

Diminutive John Boyce and Herb Hopkins of Broom School bowled games of 106 last Saturday. Jim Milford was high with a 45 game closely followed by Ron Kraai with 142 for the high school group.

Most of the 20 boys in the group are scoring fairly close to 100 and this augurs well for the future bowling enthusiasts of Birmingham.

There are a few places left in the group for interested individuals who wish to learn how to bowl. For more information telephone 724, local Y headquarters.

These new radio aerials atop local police squad cars are certainly inconspicuous compared to the former long ones at the left rear fender. Certainly ought to keep them from being too easily pegged as "G-boys."

Flower Pots Prove Important in Life of Birmingham Girl

Miss Dorothy Stevens has returned from Atlanta, Ga., where she spent nearly a month in her new enterprise, selling a sensational new flower pot.

Dot worked at the African violet show held in Atlanta, and in her first attempt at national sales made good in a large way. In one day she filled orders for 144 of these new flower pots, "which defied subzero temperatures." The idea behind the item is simple, yet one that flower-lovers have long sought.

"The set, made of plastic, comes with a plastic base, in which the water is put. A wick feeds the moisture through to the plant roots as it is needed. The supply lasts for ten days, so vacation times need not carry the thought of returning to find all one's beloved plants dead from lack of water, nor the fuss of getting neighbors to care for them.

Dot graduated from Baldwin high school last June, and began her sales career almost at once, and purely by chance. A business acquaintance of her father, Clark H. Stevens, happened to mention that he needed someone in this capacity, and at Mr. Stevens suggestion, decided to give the young girl a chance. With all the seductions of the 18-year-old, Dot threw herself into the job, and is now established in a highly competitive field.

She will retain exclusive sales rights in southern, middlewestern and northwestern states. While no immediate plans are made for long trips, Dot will visit neighboring cities to personally introduce her wares and conduct sales. In addition to the territories mentioned already, she also has retained all rights on the mail order sales.

That "Do Not Enter" sign located at Woodward and Lincoln has created more of a hazard than that which it formerly existed, city officials learned from one motorist Monday evening. "You have a chance to get out of your car now to see if there is any southbound Hunter traffic," the individual declared. City Manager Donald C. Egbert said he will take the matter up with the State Highway Department who placed the sign there.

DeMolay Plans Fall Dance for November

Sixteen local young men received their DeMolay degrees at the meeting held Tuesday evening.

Plans were discussed for the DeMolay Fall dance, which will be held in the Community House on Nov. 15. It will be one of the social highlights of the year, and will feature Pat Pascal and his band.

Refreshments were served after the meeting for the members and guests.

Local 'Y' Drops Practice Game to Detroit Quintet

When they stated that "big" basketball was coming to Birmingham, Ed Beber must have been speaking figuratively and not literally.

St. Antoine YMCA Blue Giants, averaging better than 6 feet in height, displayed a fast breaking offense in downing Birmingham 'Y' 39 to 34 last Monday on the Baldwin High floor. It was the first game of the season for the local 'Y' which will be playing in the Metropolitan League.

Raymond Billingsley managed to control the ball during the first half and by allowing the guards to break through on blocking plays, aided Birmingham in assuming a first quarter 8 to 7 and half time lead of 17 to 16.

Conditioning spelled doom for the Birminghamians in the third period as Paul Kelley, Don Little, and Gene Richardson were bottled up and could not set up plays under the basket. As this was primarily a game to see how the boys would react under fire, the entire squad of fourteen saw action.

Beautiful ball handling by Best and the Chapman brothers of the visitors gave St. Antoine an advantage in the second half. The game was ably refereed by Lloyd Cooper.

Without considerable investigation, this Wanderer would have difficulty in remembering just when it was that we had our last heavy rainfall prior to Monday night. And last spring we had all a good deal of snow.

YMCA to Sponsor Radio Programs

The Detroit YMCA including the Birmingham Branch, the Junior Board of Commerce and the Detroit School System, are co-sponsoring a thirteen-week radio series of vocational guidance for youth over radio station WWJ

7:30 to 7:45 p.m., Monday evenings. Vocations to be considered have been determined by a survey made among senior students in the Detroit High School System. The thirteen top interest vocations will be broadcast over the air. Next week, (Monday, Nov. 3) the subject of "teaching" as a profession will be discussed.

The adult panel will be composed of three high school senior grade students and three adults discuss the thirteen vocations of primary interest to students on the panel represent a different school and vocation each week. They are careful selected individuals who have expressed a definite interest in vocation to be considered.
