

Sea Scouts Open Fall Season With Meeting Sept. 17

Committee Chairman Colin Campbell announced this week that the Sea Scout ship "Hunter" will have its first meeting of the fall season Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p. m. in the Community House.

According to Skipper Richard Brown, several exciting cruises have been taken on Lake St. Clair this summer by the Scouts. The eight-meter ship "Shamrock," owned by Chum Kerr of the Bay View Yacht Club, was available to them for a recent cruise.

Mate Howard Esten took Scouts Charles Allison, Bill Hickman, John Sheldon and Tim Adams for an overnight cruise on Lake St. Clair over Labor Day week end in his sloop. Former Skipper Ben Brewster has also been on several cruises with the Scouts.

Boys between the ages of 15 and 18, who are interested in learning about ships and sailing through advanced scouting, are invited to attend the opening fall meeting next Wednesday at the Community House.

The Birmingham Lions is sponsored by the Birmingham Lions Club.

depression, landscaping costs could be sharply reduced, trees could be purchased far more cheaply than heretofore and again there would be plenty of workmen available.

James Bradley Plan Fred Hammond of Kensington road asked if the sewage and water supply costs for the multiple dwelling area would be borne by the entire city, or just those living in the Woodward avenue section. He was informed that, since it would affect the whole city, the cost would be so allocated.

Another resident, who declined to give his name, said he had lived in the area for many years and during that time had had his own water supply.

"I think that any man who has had his own well and has paid the plumber's bills for 20 years, will tell you that the cost for this plan will be so way over what our private expenses are now," he said.

John Bradley commended the commission on their far-sightedness in starting this planning now, and the architects in the way they have done it.

"I feel that now is the time to start," he said. "True, we may not be able to complete it all right away, but at least we will have started. As the years go by we can keep on working."

Cities Detroit As Example "If we do not start now, we are going to find ourselves with a set of plans that will not even resemble these. Look at Detroit. They started about 50 years ago; what have they today? About the original plan in Washington boulevard. Had they taken their original plan and started working on them, they would be free of a lot of the present problems."

"Get these lands, cut the streets, begin the sewer and water line layout . . . but start and start now."

Another commission will come into being and another set of plans. Still another will combine both sets, and so on, so that if we wait until what we think is the right moment we never will get anywhere and the conditions which we are trying to avoid will have crept upon us so that we are trapped."

Other Meetings Scheduled "We who live here are all proud of our city. It's clean, quiet, comfortable, and we want to keep it that way. This is the time to assure ourselves that the future will not see it otherwise. It is the most beautiful spot in this section, and one of the most sought after residential sections in the State of Michigan. We must do everything in our power to keep it just as it is . . . or improve upon it."

Several others in attendance commended the commission on the plan and its aims.

Booth, in closing the meeting, announced that further hearings would be held the first Monday in each month, and invited Bloomfield Hills residents to attend and express their views on the proposal.

Shoe Store Notes 25 Business Years in Birmingham

Birmingham has come a long way in the past 25 years since Phil Williams first opened the doors of Williams Foot Shop to the public back in September of 1922. Only three other establishments that are now doing business on West Maple were in operation at the time Phil began, he remembered. They were Shain's Drug Store, the Leonard Electrical Company and the Erwin and Smith Market. Of these three, only one is now operated by the proprietor that held the reins in those days.

Phil couldn't recall just how big the community was then, but he did know that Saturday nights were a bit different than they are now. That was the night when the stores really boomed the week's business by catering to the farmers who made their weekly trip into town with their families in all sorts of horse drawn vehicles. Sure, there were plenty of automobiles then too, but old dobbin was still plenty popular.

Phil has been selling shoes for the past 45 years, having been in the shoe business in Detroit for 20 years prior to coming to Birmingham.
