turning from Indianapolis where they had spent the holiday. Beomon, 30, said Mrs. Manery, 57, wife of Robert Manery of Detroit, was a passenger in the car driven by her husband which figured in a minor accident about 11:30 Sunday night. The couple were returning to their home when they stopped for the signal light at Linden and Hunter.

Another car, driven by Clyde N. Martin, 30, of Pontiac, approached the light, and as it changed to green, Martin told police he tried to pass between the Manery car and another in a far lane. Whether he misjudged the distance, or whether one of the other cars swerved slightly, he could not definitely say, but did admit striking the Manery car. Manery told police his wife became excited, and after returning from a nearby garage where she had gone to phone a report, complained of not being able to get her breath. She was brought to the police headquarters where members of the Birmingham Fire Department's emergency squad used an oxygen mask but were unable to revive her.

strange but strong character who rose from a Nebraska cattle ranch where he first saw the light of day in 1898, to the position in the public eye of a great crusader against wrong in public office.

Amidst the tinsel and the glamour of inauguration ceremonies and speeches and banquets, G. Mennen Williams, himself the son of wealth, will be projected into the Governor's chair behind a large glass-covered flat-top desk in the State Capitol in Lansing; five days later the Legislature will convene in biennial regular session, and then will come the contest between the New Deal minority and the Republican majority in Michigan's civic affairs.

From my personal observations of speeches and banquets, I believe him to be honest, with a liberal quota of academic knowledge gained from schools, plus the dreamer-planner circle has been associated with in his public life.

In the evening at 8:30 p.m. the Baptist Young Fellowship will hold its regular meeting. Next Sunday the leader of the discussion will be David J. Knowlton. Last week the cabinet met to stand by the observance of Youth Week, Jan. 23-30.

Overseas Aid Asked; CROP Begins Drive For Foodstuffs Here

Mrs. S. K. Kuhn, Gilbert Lake, has been notified that the quota assigned to Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township for the Christian Rural Overseas Program has been set at $1,000. The CROP has been in existence for the past year, but has just swung into full activities. Their aim is to contact all sections of the United States, securing aid in the form of food stuffs for overseas shipment. The movement is sponsored by American churches, and is operating only in this country. Western states, according to Mrs. Kuhn, have been sending carloads of processed grains, land, dried milk and other products. The aim of the local group, which includes Mrs. Howard Case of Franklin and Mrs. F. Dowling of Bloomfield Township, is to send a carload of wheat and one of dried milk from this area.

In cities and all villages people will be solicited for cash donations while in rural areas, milk and wheat are being asked.

No Birmingham chairman has yet been named. The announcement will be made by Mrs. Kuhn as soon as possible, so local residents will know where their donations should be sent.

New Building Rate Schedule Adopted By Commissioners

Because the city was losing money under building inspections, the city commission Monday evening approved a new rate schedule which becomes effective tomorrow.

According to City Manager Donal G. Egbert, the city this year will spend about $5,700 making building inspections, as against the revenue of approximately $3,200.

The new rates will permit the city to break even, and are patterned after those which are presently in use in several surrounding communities, including Detroit.

We Heard It Said By:

John Johannet, city forester: "City officials and the recreation board are working to make Quantan Lake safer for skaters than it has ever been before. We want a place where parents can let their youngsters go to skate without any cause for fear and worry. Through several new features, added this year, we feel we are approaching that goal right now."
