SERVICE

The biggest and most important job Michigan Bell does for the people of Michigan is to provide good telephone service. For the more than 8 million calls a day handled through Michigan Bell's switchboards are essential to business and affect the personal lives of most everyone.

But the company's contribution to the economic welfare of the state goes a long way beyond that.

One out of every 90 people em ployed in Michigan works for Michigan Bell. They and their families add up to a lot of people.

This year, Michigan Bell is paying out 70 million dollars in wages. Practically all of that money is spent by telephone employees in Michigan.

This year, Michigan Bell is paying more than 51/2 million dollars in state and local taxes. Nearly 41/2 million of this amount represents property taxes earmarked by the . lichigan Constitution for the State Primary School Fund. Michigan Bell is the largest single contributor to this fund which is used to help finance Michigan's schools.

This year, Michigan Bell is spending close to 70 million dollars to improve and expand telephone service. Most of this money is new capital and comes from people who invest their savings in the telephone busi-ness. A lot of it goes to Michigan contractors and suppliers - and their employees.

So you see, Michigan depends on Michigan Bell for good telephone service, and for a great deal more
