Named to First Methodist Church

The Rev. Robert A. Lawrance was appointed as the associate of the First Methodist Church at the Detroit annual conference by Bishop Raymond J. Wade. The appointment became effective Sunday morning, June 27. He was transferred from the Ulica Methodist Church, where he served as pastor for two years. Prior to this he served the Sandusky Methodist Church for four years.

He will be associated with Rev. A. F. Runkel, the pastor of the church who is entering the fifth year of his pastorate. As the as-

Around the Cracker Barrel

In this business of operating a store you learn something every day. You learn it whether you want to or not. Some of the things you learn are quite pleasant; some come to you with a shock.

Right now I'm beginning to realize what stylists in women's clothes are doing. During the war they didn't have much of a chance to display their versatility. Fabrics were scarce, and trimming materials were absent. Styles were a bit on the austere side, with short dresses in vogue. You ladies could buy dresses with some safety, knowing that they probably would be all right for next year. You put away your summer cottons with care—instead of throwing them into the rag bag.

But now we are back in that period of peace, when all sorts of fabrics are in abundance, but with prices still high. And the stylists are beginning to take you on a merry-go-round again.

The "New Look" was widely advertised as the new mode in fashions. Dresses had to be longer, and flaring in the skirt line. Almost twice as much material went into this year's skirt as had previously been used. You bought yards of skirt facing to lower the hem line on present garments; you spent hours in getting your wardrobe into condition.

Your styles this year brought snickers from the men—those creatures who constantly prefer the old. You bought costumes which were almost exact replicas of the styles of the Nineties. You bought flouncy taffeta petticoats, which were supposed to give your skirts additional width, plus a swishing sound which reminded us of our grandmother. It was a terrific promotion, and the whole of our female population went for it.

Well, ladies, you can now prepare yourselves for a shock. The "New Look" will soon be dead as a wet firecracker. The stylists have ordained that all of this was a mistake. They have decided that our ladies didn't really want these styles at all. They have decided to correct their horrible mistake.

When new styles come in for Fall you won't see the "New Look." The ornate fashions will be gone; simplicity in lines will again predominate. Skirts will still be about the same length, but they won't be flaring and loose. They will be cut more in straight lines, with some even being curved in a bit at the hem. Shades of the hobble skirt! They're not quite like that old hobble skirt; but they have a faint resemblance. Blouses will be more classic, with simplicity in lines prevailing.

Well, ladies, that's what they tell us is in store. You're no more provoked than I am by the new styles, those unknown characters who live in obscurity and dictate how we will look, should make kindly friends. There is no sense whatever in constant change. Such a thing produces more business for the manufacturer, but the customer and retailer loses.

Which brings me to the point of realizing that we have some taffeta petticoats which are about worthless. We bought them at high prices because the demand would be "terrific." We still have several. We don't want them. Probably you don't either. I don't know what you would do with them, unless you wear 'em to some Gay Nineties party. A neighbor might kindly promote. So, if you want a real bargain in something no one wants, we'll sell them cheap. Full taffeta petticoats—a few, thank goodness—in beautiful colored plaids, can be had for $5.75. They are beautifully tailored of the very finest material. They're out of style, but they're a bargain. Then there are some white cotton petticoats with a wide taffeta border in bright colors. They're full cut, too. They're a bargain at $4.75. I might say that both of these prices are less than they cost us.

Within a short time we'll have in some new late summer dresses. They'll be cut in the new mode—or whatever name they'll attach to this newest style. Because this is a sort of casual town, and you ladies like casual styles, you'll enjoy these newer dresses. I haven't any idea how long they'll be in style. I should imagine this new trend ought to last for a few months, anyway.

All of which is one more argument for our policy of not charging too high prices, or handling merchandise which has to be sold for exorbitant prices. As long as styles change as often as they do, it seems sensible not to pay a fortune for clothes which may be out of style in a few months.

Just arrived: Luxite nylon-knit half slips with matching briefs—may be purchased separately. Also another nylon brief with knit panels and net sides.

Now, all of this so far has been directed to the ladies. But I've a story for you men, too. The manufacturers told me that Father's Day was a second Christmas; that everything we had, nearly, would be grabbed up for a present for poor old dad. That was a lot of rubbish. It's true that we did a big business before Father's Day, and that many of you received bright colored ties which you are still wondering about. You should hear how your wives—in many cases—thought your ties were too drab. You should brighten up your appearance, they said. And the exception was that some of your wives thought your ties were too gay, that a nice small design would be a relief. But the pay-off was when Junior bought a tie for you. He just knew you would like a strong, bright yellow. He bought that tie for you, and as previously planned, he's probably wearing it.

Well, for that "second Christmas" I bought enough shirts to start a jobbing business in them. We've got so many shirts we can't even find space for them. Fine white shirts—and colored—of broadcloth, oxford, and imported Egyptian cotton. Cool dress shirts for summer. Shirts of all styles and sizes. So, if you're in need of shirts, remember where to come for a tremendous selection. If any other merchant in town has half as many, he ought to be ashamed.

We have just received a shipment of beautiful 100% virgin wool Pendleton slacks from Oregon. They are light in weight, tailored with the same skill and finesse used in making those famous Pendleton shirts. Colors are dark brown, tan and powder blue. All sizes new. A bargain at $19.50. We also have other slacks in tropical worsted, hard finished worsted, flannel—all 100% wool—from $11.75 to $15.95.

Our cheese is beginning to melt in this hot weather. Also, our source of that fine Wisconsin cheese tells us that we probably can't get any more until Fall. You see this cheese has been aged two years, and all of the two year shelf-cured cheddar is gone for this quarter. More won't come of age until September. That's what they say. So, in view of the effect of the hot weather and in view of the fact that we can't get it anyway, we're going to discontinue the cheese block as soon as the present round is used. But, don't worry, it'll be back in early Fall.

Next Saturday we'll have iced tea and coffee, as well as hot coffee. So if you're in need of a cooling drink, and a place to sit and relax, drop in next Saturday.

Remember, this is the store of National Brands, where you get the finest fabrics beautifully tailored for reasonable prices.

Christian Science Lesson Sermon for Sunday, July 4

"God" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 4.

The Golden Text (Exodus 20:2,3) is "I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

Among the Bible citations in this passage, (Isaiah 44:8): "Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 228): "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

Longleaf and slash pines are the two principal species of trees which supply the raw material for the "Naval Stores" industry.

Walled Lake Plans Big Celebration

Two big fireworks display will be shown at Walled Lake Park during the coming holiday week end. One display will be given on Sunday night, July 4, and an entirely different display will be shown Monday night, July 5.

The large shaded picnic grove is available for picnickers who bring their picnic lunches. Hundreds of picnic tables are located in areas and a large number of charcoal grills will be found throughout the grounds for the cooking of picnics.

A fleet of speed boats will operate from the park dock and a large fleet of modern row boats suitable for outboard motors will be available and all of the thrill rides and amusements will be ready for the holiday crowds. The bathing beach that can accommodate four thousand people will be open for all day and the roller skating rink, games and two baseball diamonds will also be among the amusements offered to the holiday throngs.

Dancing will be featured in the New Casino Ballroom with Jack Pina and his band.
