

Bits of B'ham

grime, dust and dirt does a big Greyhound bus pick up on an average day's run over the countryside? What's your guess? The Wanderer will bet that you aren't even close, because who in the world would believe that it would amount to 500 pounds unless he actually heard a Greyhound executive make such a statement. Therefore the big go-devils aren't washed nearly every day to beautify their countenances, but more for efficiency and economy is our guess.

Have you been curious about what is happening behind that green barricade at Cunningham's? This Wanderer stopped to inquire the other day and learned that soon a plate glass front and neon signs will be unveiled. A decorated interior is also planned for the convenience of customers.

There's a lesson to be learned from the police blotter this week. A frantic mother called headquarters this week to notify them to be on the lookout for her four-year old, who had walked out of the house unnoticed, and was nowhere to be seen. Police started watching every small boy with suspicion, and really scoured the town. Eventually the youngster was located—hiding behind the daventry in his own living room.

Everyone is familiar with the news reel shots of firemen opening hydrants full blast for the youngsters in our larger cities to have at least one cool spot to play. In Birmingham the tables were somewhat reversed Saturday morning, but just as effective. On East Maple a lawn sprinkler was throwing its cooling spray over a radius of about 15 feet. On the outer fringes a robin was diligently searching the wet ground for his breakfast, while at close quarters a small, shaggy and extremely dirty little dog was "grabbing a drink" as the spray-head turned around, and at the same time, enjoying a cool refreshing shower. Wonder why it is you always hear people with a gripe say they live the life of a dog?
