Now Appearing in "Dear Ruth" at Will-O-Way

Virginia Gilmore, stage and screen star, is now appearing at the Will-O-Way Playhouse in "Dear Ruth". Miss Gilmore was the original Broadway star of that show and this is the first time that she has played in it off Broadway. "Dear Ruth" will run until July 25.

California and entering the movies before she was called to New York to appear on the legitimate stage. "Dear Ruth" is a gay, farcical comedy, written by Norman Kraasna in a planned attempt to entertain audiences with comedy. It makes perfect summer fare for patrons who wish to relax and enjoy good theatre in the colorful air-conditioned apple barn theatre. The apple juice and doughnuts which are offered as refreshments between acts have become a popular feature of the intermissions.

Some of the popular Virginia Gilmore movies have been, "Wonder Man", "The Westerner", "Son of Fury", "Pride of the Yankees", "Winter Carnival", and "Western Union". "Dear Ruth" will appeal to the young audiences as well as the grown-ups and for this reason Will-o-Way is encouraging the teenagers to attend the matinees and plan to picnic on the grounds with their friends before the shows which begin at 2:40. Since all the seats to all performances are reserved, it is possible to arrange for blocks of seats for any groups who would like to attend in one party.

Tom de Graffenried of Los Angeles is featured in the part of the judicial father in "Dear Ruth" and others in the cast include Gerald M. Harrington, Norrie Scott who is a Birmingham resident and prominent member of the Village Players; Liz Ingleson of Bloomfield Hills; Bob Langin, Jr., Christine Lombard, Raoul Sartori, Evelyn Sue Menjoy and John Beeman from the Cleveland Playhouse.

The production is directed by William W. Merrill and the setting was designed by Harold W. Meinert who also designed the scenery for the first Will-o-Way show, "Years Ago".

2ND Anniversary

JULY 12, 1946 . . . that was the day when Mills Pharmacy first opened its doors to the public. We, here at the store, can well remember the bare concrete floor and the three flat top tables we had to use for merchandising displays. The soda fountain was the only complete unit in the store. The cigar case and cosmetic cases; the fountain pen case; and even the nut department case were on the way, but hadn't arrived in time for our opening.

However, there was one thing which we had in abundance and for it we will never stop being grateful . . . that was your patronage. We had customers from the very start and by the end of our first year we were going strong because of your support. We also had nearly all of our fixtures by that time and at last we were beginning to look like the modern pharmacy we had planned for you.

Also, at the end of the first year, our stock was abundant with the merchandise our customers wanted and needed. In a few cases we and you had to settle for the never-to-be-forgotten war substitutes among our stock. By now they are only memories, but if any of our customers still have any of these "war babies" which were purchased here, it would give us much satisfaction if they would bring them back to us and let us replace them with today's better product.

We gratefully acknowledge the large part our customers have played in placing the Mills Pharmacy among Birmingham's business institutions. We hope to be able to stay in business here for a long, long time, and with each successive year serve you better by offering you everything you want in only the finest, tested brands. Best merchandise, coupled with the finest service which we always intend to provide, we feel confident that some day we will become one of Birmingham's oldest and foremost firms.
