What's the Hottest News in Cars since the Self-Starter?

For the answer to that, just ask any man who drives a Dynaflow Buick.

He'll tell you, you haven't seen anything yet — until you slip behind a Dynaflow wheel and see for yourself what this new drive does.

It isn't merely that it's easy — though all you do in normal driving is set a lever, press the gas treadle, and steer.

It isn't merely the "stunts" you can pull, such as coming to a dead stop on a steep hill, then moving smoothly away, just by the way you manage the gas treadle.

The important thing is that Dynaflow Drive marks a basic change in the way power is delivered from the engine to the rear wheels.

The idea of passing through a series of gears in fixed stages, either manually or by mechanical means, is gone entirely.

Instead, spinning off is so cunningly directed and controlled in the Dynaflow unit that it instantly shapes engine power to fit any normal driving need.

When you start, it steps up engine "torque" like a low gear to give you swift, surging getaway.

When you accelerate or climb, it fits the pull of the engine to that particular job.

When you cruise on the level open road, it delivers power with a flowing smoothness that is far silkier than the normal, high.

You have manual control of direction simply by moving a lever. You have reserve braking power instantly at your command — and extra power for emergency pulls.

But there is never any clutch-work — there is no clutch-pedal. And never any gear-shifting in the old sense — your power plant does what the forward gears used to do.

Right now, of course, Dynaflow Drive is available only on Buick ROADMASTER models.

Go find out about it, at the nearest Buick dealer — and be ready to put your order in, whether or not you have a car to trade.

LOOK to Greyhound first for EXPERT DRIVERS

The Greyhound bus driver has become a symbol of skill and service in motorized transportation. With him you ride secure in the knowledge that behind the wheel is a highly trained expert, one of the world's finest drivers.

Both training and tradition give the Greyhound driver well-deserved pride in his ability. New drivers, regardless of previous experience, receive a full month or more of intensive special training before taking over on their own. They must pass certain physical and mental tests comparable to those of the Army Air Corps. And now most of Greyhound's former experienced drivers are back at the wheel after serving in the Armed Forces.

Remember, too, that these Greyhound experts are more than bus drivers... they are equally famed for their friendly, eager attention to every detail of service that makes traveling by Greyhound more than just a way to go places.

For the best in bus service... count on Greyhound.
