Pfc. Shields Assigned to Ordnance Service Company in Japan

With the Eighth Army in Kobe, Japan, (Special), Pfc. Joseph R. Shields, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Shields, 1492 Bird St., is presently on duty with the 59th Ordnance Service Company in Kobe, Honshu, Japan. Kobe, Japan's largest port, is being utilized by the army as the supply base for all American occupation forces in Southern Honshu. Before the war Kobe was Japan's import and export center. People of all nationalities were attracted to it for both business reasons and because of its unusual beauty. At the present time Kobe hosts an international population of close to 85,000.

Although Kobe was 53 per cent destroyed by air raids, it still manages to retain the Oriental flavor which made it one of the cosmopolitan centers of the far east before the war.

The area is full of unusual sights, not to mention amusements, but perhaps one of the most unique spots in Kobe is the base rifle range where Pfc. Shields will continue to receive part of his army training. This range has been constructed on the spot where one of the Emperor's imperial palaces formerly stood. The palace, destroyed during the war, has been removed and the range built in its place.

At present Pfc. Shields is assigned as an auto mechanic. He came to Japan in April, 1948, and has been assigned to the Kobe base since May.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Live Longer

Someone asked Pappy Miller last week how he stayed so spry at ninety. Pappy told him:

"Well, sir—when I work, I work hard. When I sit, I sit loose. When I think, I go to sleep."
According to Doc Hollister, that formula isn't far amiss. "Hard work," says Doc, "never wear out anyone before his time; providing he knew how and when to relax."
Doc himself works overtime, with his daytime patients at the office, and his evening calls. And when he gets home he takes it easy with a mellow glass of beer and chats with the missus until it's time to go to bed.

From where I sit, relaxing is a fine art—especially in these tense, fast-moving times. And there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer—enjoyed with pleasant company—to restore that easy frame of mind that one needs after a hard day's work.

Patients' Benefit Meeting is Tonight

The regular meeting of the Patients' Benefit Association of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium will be held tonight at the Royal Oak Health Center, Stephenson and Fourth, Royal Oak.

All ex-patients are urged to attend. Refreshments and entertainment will follow the business meeting.

Necessary. "I believe you'd rather sit playing cards with dad than take me out!"
"No, darling, but we must have money to get married on."

We just can't produce telephone calls this way

It would be nice if we could make up a lot of telephone calls in advance and store them for future use. But we can't. Every telephone call must be made to your order on the spot... whenever you want it, day or night. Every call requires a system of wires, cables and central office equipment which grows more and more complex as it becomes easier and faster for you to use. And as more telephones are added, the equipment needed per telephone multiplies. There, in brief, is the "rising-cost characteristic" of the business that always challenges the telephone industry. Over the years, better equipment and more efficient methods have been able to meet this challenge. But today, these alone are insufficient to offset the overall increase in the costs of running the business. You can be sure, however, that we shall continue to provide the best possible service at the lowest possible cost. And every day—as the telephone system grows—the value of your service increases because you can call more people and more people can call you.

Turner to Display New 1949 Ford

Tomorrow morning, June 18, is the time set for the unveiling of the all new, 1949 Ford at the Harold Turner, Inc. showroom. Harold Turner has extended a personal invitation to all people of the community to come in and inspect the several models that will be here for the opening. He has also stated that favors will be given to everyone who visits the showroom on opening day. Leo Fenn, sales manager of the Turner organization, stated that the 1949 Ford reveals a radical departure from traditional Ford styling and engineering. New standards of beauty, comfort and economy have been set. Officials of the company believe they have advanced far ahead of others in the low-priced field. J. R. Davis, of Bloomfield Hills, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company, said "Styling of the new Ford definitely established it as the car of the year." The Harold Turner showroom at 464 S. Woodward, will remain open until late in the evenings of the first few days that the new automobile is on display.

Better methods of increasing soil fertility have diminished the need for clearing new lands for crop production and pasture. Thus timber crops can be grown on the less fertile and rougher portions of the farm producing an additional revenue and making full use of all the land on the farm.
