Muriel Lockrow Named to Detroit Baptist Position

The Detroit Baptist Union has just appointed Miss Muriel Lockrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil L. Lockrow of Ann street, as assistant director of Christian Education. The organization represents more than 80 Baptist churches in the greater Detroit area.

activities for the churches in the metropolitan district. Miss Lockrow is now developing a new and comprehensive auxiliary program for the summer months, and is also going to speak to numerous church and youth groups throughout Detroit.

She attended the University of Redlands in Calif., and is now completing her work for a degree at Wayne University in Detroit. Her major field of education is the use of radio and audio-visual materials.

At college she was responsible for arranging a "religion and life week" for a student body of over 1000 young people. She was also active in the radio and religious programs of the university, organized a college deputization team, and guide student groups in preparing and presenting religious programs in the college area.

Miss Lockrow was one of the winners in the Western States speech contest for college students west of the Mississippi. During the past year she has been director of youth work at the First Baptist Church in Birmingham.

Nancy Lee Clark Becomes Bride of Marion Wellford

Miss Nancy Lee Clark became a bride of Marion Wellford at 4:00 p.m. ceremony last Saturday in the Kirk-In-Hills Presbyterian Church.

Apple Blossoms, stock and snapdragons framed the altar steps while the Rev. Leslie Bethel read the service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall E. Clark of Wing Lake, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion R. Wellford of New Orleans, La.

Miss Clark was crowned in white marquisette with a scalloped bertha, a bouffant train and a rose point lace cap from which her French silk net fingertip veil fell. She carried a cascade of white tulips, Star of Bethlehem and lily. She wore a family heirloom, a string of pearls from which hung a diamond and pearl ring.

The maid of honor, Miss Katherine Fullas of Allentown, Pa., was dressed in white faille with a net insert yoke and a shoulder ruffle. She wore blue cornflowers in her hair and carried a bouquet of blue cornflowers, iris and lily.

A cousin of the groom, Harry A. Wellford of Memphis, was best man at the ceremony. His brother, John Collier of Memphis, and James Judge of Fullerton, Calif., acted as groomsmen.

Mrs. Clark chose a pastel blue silk afternoon dress, a hat trimmed with American beauty roses and a corsage of shatterdust carnations.

Mrs. Wellford wore a pink and white silk print afternoon dress with a white hat. Her flowers were pink camellias.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Rotunda Inn. For the first step of her honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the bride selected a grey wool suit with a matching grey felt hat, green accessories and a camella corsage. The young couple will make their home in Memphis.
