In Barry Play

Attractive Gertrude Rogerson has the role of Lis Embrie in "Philip Barry's, "The Philadelphia Story," a Robert F. Hampton Production, which will be presented Friday and Saturday, May 28th and 29th at the Institute of Arts Theater.

Mrs. Rogerson, who lives at 387 Pierce street, first appeared in Robert F. Hampton Productions as the infatigable Mrs. Orcutt of "Stage Door," at the beginning of the season. Mrs. Rogerson has been a vital part of little theater for some time. She had appeared in "Ring Around Elizabeth," "George Washington Slept Here," "Chicago" and several other local productions before becoming a member of R. F. H. Productions. She also spent ten weeks in summer stock at East Tawas, Michigan last year.
