BITS OF B'HAM Multiple Death Accidents Send Up Traffic Toll

 speeding on Fairway, it was pointed out that the Park aggregation had wanted lamps and holes to cut down speeding. Yet here was one of those same citizens speeding in another part of town! Someone's face must have been VERY red!

Reas Campbell, proprietor of Birmingham's unique "Village Store" became a member of the local Rotary club Monday noon when he was introduced by Club President Bill Forrester.

Mrs. Dean Coffin, of the "Confusion, Inc." Coffin, called this Wednesday morning to report that an English sparrow was attempting to woo her pet canary. "Laurels Melchior, 11". The sparrow appears at the window in the morning and tries to get in through the pane. The canary, called "Stu" for short (and we can see why), has his cage right near the window. But after many tries, the sparrow gets so tired he tucks his head under his wing and naps right on the window sill. So far, the glass has withstood the sparrow's attack.

The DPW this week started to repave the yellow traffic markings on the city's streets and were given good until Tuesday's colder weather. In order for the paint to stick properly, the pavement must be warm and dry. Mary Fall, DPW superintendent, states that operations will be resumed as soon as possible.

Ed Kirbert has reported to The Eccentric that the WJIG trial conference at Grand Rapids, Mich. is displaying two of this paper's feature stories from the May 20 issue as excellent examples of community and community paper relationship. The stories concerned the "Panel Discussion and Family-Life Institute features."

Harry E. East, Director of GM's styling section which designs and plans the GM cars of tomorrow, stopped here in town Friday afternoon while a guest at Bloomfield Hills Country Club. And his car literally stopped local traffic, both pedestrian and vehicular. Parked in front of the National Bank, the sleek convertible looked like the Buick of 1952. But, here's the story which will surprise local folks, particularly those who view the car: it is East's personal auto which he designed and he built for himself in 1940, EIGHT YEARS AGO! It may or may not be the Buick of the 1950's, depending on what top GM officials decide. But it is equipped with few gadgets which may, if the prove successful, be incorporated in future GM passenger cars.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Arnold and their five children, submitted prints in the recent semi-annual competition of the Detroit Photo Club. Photographs of the Five were accepted in a total of 18 which will go on exhibition.
