Annual Business Meeting Is Held by Membership of First Baptist Church

Following a tasty fellowship supper, members of the First Baptist Church held their annual church business meeting.

The membership of George Jackson, moderator of the church, a large and representative group of the congregation met for the occasion. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Emil Kontz, opened the meeting with a devotional period which was concluded with a brief but impressive memorial service in tribute to three lay leaders of the church, Mr. William G. Olson, Mrs. Lillian Mosey and Mr. Charlotte Farmer, who passed away.

Hear Annual Reports

First item of business was the hearing of the annual reports. The various organizations of the church gave an accounting of their activities and achievements during the church year which closed April 30.

Notable progress had been made in several branches of the church's varied program for children, youth and the church at large.

Concluding the list of reports, Rev. Kontz presented a thoughtful appraisal of the church. Included were several important recommendations regarding future programs.

Effect of Light on Life to Be Shown in Cranbrook Exhibit

The Cranbrook Institute of Science announces a new exhibit entitled "Life from Light". An exhibit of 27 large white trilliums will show every conceivable variation from type.

Cecil Billington assembled the trillium collection, hiding all but three in Oakland County. Seemingly to confuse the botanist and delight the horticulturist, some flowers vary to an extent to defy the definition of the species.
