

'Y' Clubs Plan Heavy Schedule of Seasonal Events

All members of the Birmingham YMCA Clubs interested in attending the Detroit Lions-Pittsburgh Steelers football game on Sunday, Nov. 21, are urged to get in touch with the 'Y' office to clear on transportation and attendance. The group will leave for the game immediately following the close of church services on that date. Each person planning to attend is urged to bring a picnic lunch and to wear warm clothing.

Adams and Bloomfield Village Gra-Y clubs are practicing for their football game on the morning of Nov. 25. Boys attending the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of these schools make up the squad.

Boys and Girls Gra-Y Clubs at Poppleton School are collecting old clothing to send to children in the mountain regions of the southern states. Any family having old clothing, suitable for wear by grade school children, and wishing to help these children in their project are asked to contact Poppleton School or local 'Y' offices.

Hike Is Planned

Barnum Junior 'Y' Clubs have been seeing and discussing the films "Championship Basketball" and "How to Play Volleyball". These groups are ready themselves for inter-branch visits with other boys their age for group play and fellowship.

The Einkydinks, the Saturday group for third graders, have a hike planned to Springdale Park for Nov. 13. This group will study conservation and nature. Lure through displays and by seeing State Conservation films during club meetings from now until Christmas.

The Riding group will continue to meet for horseback riding weather permitting, each Friday afternoon. Miss Cloutier at the 'Y' office is handling reservations.

Bits of Birmingham

On Saturday, November 6, William R. Muller, internationally famous political writer for the Detroit News, was running a tractor on his palatial estate at the corner of West Maple and Middleboro Road; Mr. Muller (an old personal friend of this Wanderer) aspires, among other things, to become the agricultural wonder of the Fourth Estate of the newspaper on which he is now employed, retaining, at the same time, his place as the political authority.

To get back to what we started to say in the above paragraph, Mr. Muller was pulling a disk behind the tractor, and it required most of the day for him to prepare his estate for the spring crop. At the conclusion, of the day, it happened to reach into his left hip pocket for a—for a—for a wallet which contained most of his personal fortune; as well as all the other identification cards, carried by him, as Mr. Muller's position.

He could not find his wallet and it suddenly dawned on him that sometime during his "harrowing" operation the wallet had slipped out of his left hip pocket and landed in the bosom of Mother Earth. He spent a number of hours in a vain search for the recovery of most of his earthly possessions, even finding recourse to a flashlight necessary to aid him in his search. Alas, his efforts brought forth no fruit—and his wallet still remains somewhere in the fertile areas of his estate.

In commenting on the subject later with this Wanderer, Mr. Muller admitted that perhaps, since the nation and the state had gone New-Demolishly Democratic in the last election, fate had caused the loss of his wallet with its contents, and he expects next spring, when he views the crop which he has sowed, to find a tree or trees and/or bush or bushes and, at the end of every twig, growing at least one dollar bill.

If this happens, Mr. Muller, no doubt, will forevermore vote the Democratic ticket.

P.S. Mr. Muller has agreed to allow any of the inhabitants of the area to use his fertile plantation should they desire to put on a treasure hunt.
