Sensational new Television table model

by Farnsworth Makers of The Capabart

The name Farnsworth has symbolized television progress and developments since the early 1920's... because it is due to Farnsworth's pioneering achievements that television is today an activity. In its newest receptivity, Farnsworth has combined the knowledge and experience of over a quarter-century's research to produce television instruments worthy of the inventor of electronic television. He has done this... and you will agree that here at last is television at its very best.

Model 651P offers complete, reliable commercial, change television coverage. A remarkable new mirror-backed 19" face-viewing tube assures a brilliant, steady high-contrast picture which can be clearly seen in daylight. Compact cabinet, average end table—blends with any home decorative scheme.

FOOTNOTES

It's Going to be a warm wool winter

It seems to us (and to lots of our customers) that cotton socks in winter are about as cold and uncomfortable as cotton gloves would be. The big problem has been to find a wool sock that wasn't more trouble than it was worth. We've found them—way over in England, and we think these socks will make you a "wool wearer", in winter for the rest of your life. Our big "find" is the British Byford, Donald Byford, the British hosiery maker, has found a process that goes a lot further than just making socks shrink-resistant. His wool socks are the first we've seen that not only keep their size in the wash, but keep the natural warmth of wool, its wearing qualities, and softness, too. You ought to try them. Elastic top, 6 x 3 rib anklets $1.50. Regular length $1.75. Many colors.

BITS OF B'HAM

Because this week's edition of The Eccentric comes out on Armistice Day, the holiday for bank and municipal employees but a work day for the rest of us, you won't be reading this until Friday. The paper was taken to the postoffice on time but with postal employees on a one-day vacation, it had to wait until Friday morning for delivery. While the Warbler is at the postoffice, it had to wait until Friday morning for delivery. While the Warbler is at the postoffice, it had to wait until Friday morning for delivery.

It does seem a bit late for Halloween news, but it has come to this Wanderer's attention that the Sly Farms furnished all the apples necessary for the cider at the big celebration. It takes a lot of apples to make cider enough to supply a couple of thousand thirty youngsters, and it certainly is a grand gesture the owners of this fruit farm have made, and one which is deeply appreciated by all committee members.

Our police chief, Ralph Moxley finds himself in an odd position these days. As a member of a law enforcement group he is duty-bound to frown upon such things as keno and bingo games. Yet—a club, of which he is a member sent him a batch of tickets to sell. Things like that just should not happen.

This Wanderer watched a small boy and girl standing in front of a West Maple store the other morning, watching the mechanical bicycle open mouthed, as the "young lady" pedaled her way nowhere very steadily. Apparently both were worried about her becoming excessively tired, for as we passed we heard the mother explain, "But dear, she's only a great big doll!"

Have you happened to run across any scrawbal election bets being paid off in Birmingham? This Wanderer hasn't, but in one of our neighboring towns a good local Republican husband pretty unhappy about letting his Democrat wife his party would win—and saying "they" didn't bet on oyster stew as long as there was a Democrat in the White House. Poor guy oyster stew is one of his favorite winter pastimes!

Mayor Milton F. Mailander, who some months ago announced he was not a candidate for re-election to the city commission next April: "The only way I can be prevailed upon to run for re-election is by petition of 1,000 registered Birmingham voters. That sort of a 'draft' I will accept."
