BIRMINGHAM VETERANEWS

Compiled from Various State and National Veterans Information Centers

A total of 1,453 veterans in Michigan are amputees as a result of service in World Wars I and II, the Veterans Administration Branch Office in Columbus, Ohio, reported today.

Voight W. Baker, chief of VA's prosthetic service in this region said the total includes leg and arm amputees and those with partial amputations of the feet and hands.

There is none of the so-called "basket" cases, minus all of both legs and both arms, Baker said.

VA is paying disability compensation to all of these veterans, Baker said. In many cases the VA has assisted in the rehabilitation of the amputee veteran.

Issuance of insurance policies to replace temporary certificates on most forms of National Service Life Insurance will begin in the near future by the Veterans Administration's Central Office in Washington.

No action on the part of the veteran will be necessary to obtain the new policies, which will contain provisions of the NSLI contracts as outlined in the NSLI law.

Policies will be issued on renewed term contracts and for those converted to any of the six permanent forms. Certificates that have been issued on the original term insurance will remain in effect until renewed or converted. VA insurance officials estimate that it will require several months to complete the job.

The Navy's postwar aviation cadet program has taken on the "new look" it was announced today by LCDR., A. J. Schultz, Jr., USN., the officer in charge of Naval Officer Procurement in Detroit.

The "new look" is the result of streamlining the cadet training program. The famous "Yellow Peril" Stearman biplane used to train thousands of cadets has been replaced by the sleek North American "Texan". The "Texan" is a basic trainer in which the cadet gets his first flying instruction in the air by a 550 Pratt & Whitney Wasp Junior engine and cruises at 150 MPH. The cadet gets 20 hours of dual instruction in this plane before he solos.

When he does solo he has fully mastered such devices as constant speed propellers, landing flaps, and retractable gears. After solo the cadet learns stunting, instrument, night, cross country and formation flying, about 180 hours of air time in the Texan; he is then sent to advanced training.

This program for Naval aviation cadets is open to all single men between 18 and 25 who have at least two years of college.

We Heard It Said By:

Frederick Jennings, 782 Chesterfield: "My wife has come up with what appears to me to be a reasonable solution of part of the pedestrian problem at Oak and Chesterfield, caused by the youngsters on their way to and from school. She suggests a traffic light halfway down the block on Chesterfield. This would remove the danger of turning cars, and would materially help the kids from the area to the south and east of the school."

ORDINANCE NUMBER 274
City of Birmingham
ORDINANCE TO AMEND BUILDING CODE

An Ordinance to Amend Section 12.501 (f) of Ordinance Number 184, known as the Building Code.

The City of Birmingham Ordains:

That Section 12.501 (f) of Ordinance Number 184 be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

(f) The use, handling, storage and sale of gasoline, fuel oil or other inflammable liquids shall be in accordance with Ordinance Number 185.

The regulation of the National Board of Fire Underwriters for Safeguarding Dry Cleaning and Dry Dyeing Plants, Paint Spraying and Spray Booths, Finishing Processes, the Storage and Handling of Photographic and X-Ray Nitrocellulose Films and Nitro-Cellulose Motion Picture Film, shall govern insofar as they apply.

Elevated trestles or hoists should be used in preference to pits. Pits may be used if they are provided with a mechanical ventilating system, which shall be operated continuously, and they shall also be provided with permanent fixed illuminating. Open air pits may be used without mechanical ventilation if approved by the Building Inspector.

Floors shall be kept clean and free from oil.

Heating by oil or gas fired furnaces may be permitted in buildings for Class 5 occupancy, provided inflammable gases, vapors or dusts are not present in the air. Where such inflammable gases, vapors, or dusts are present or generated, heating by oil or gas fired furnaces may be permitted provided there is adequate means of removing such gases, vapors or dust from the air, and provided further that air for combustion shall be conducted from outside the building to the burner unit by air ducts. Each such oil or gas fired furnace shall be approved by and shall be installed in accordance with the Standard of the National Board of Fire Underwriters or other standard of equal testing laboratory. The bottom of such furnace shall be not less than eight (8) feet above the floor, except that where the height of the ceiling would not permit the installation of such furnace, eight feet above the floor while maintaining required clearances, the Chief of the Fire Department may approve a lesser height, but in no case less than six (6) feet. The minimum acceptable distances between the burner unit, its smoke pipe and unprotected combustible material, including plaster on combustible base are as follows:

A. 6 inches from top of unit, back of unit and from side of unit opposite oil or gas burner.

B. 18 inches from burner side of unit.

C. 18 inches from smoke pipe in any direction.

The floor beneath such oil or gas fired furnace shall be noncombustible. For oil burning units, a drip pan shall be placed under the burner; the fuel supply from the source to the burner shall be by suction and the same shall be placed on the same level with the burner; and a by-pass shall be provided to return excess oil to the tank.

In buildings used for the storage of highly inflammable or explosive gases or substances, or where inflammable gases, vapors, or dust are present in the air, heating shall be by steam or hot water only. Heating equipment shall be placed in a detached building or shall be in a separate room used for no other purpose and separated both horizontally and vertically from all other parts of the building by reinforced concrete at least 6 inches thick, or masonry 8 inches thick or other construction affording 1 hour fire resistance rating, except that any boiler room located beneath any portion of a garage shall be separated therefrom by a reinforced concrete slab not less than 6 inches thick. All air entering the heat generating plant for combustion purposes shall be drawn from the outside of the building. Openings into main portion of the building from the boiler rooms shall be restricted to those necessary for heating pipes and one doorway which shall be provided with a Class A fire door and a sill raised 1 foot above the level of the main floor. Entrance to boiler room may be from the outside of the building.

This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon publication after the passage thereof.

Made and passed by the Commission of the City of Birmingham this 2nd day of November, A.D. 1948.
